Little 'Vagrant' Naps at Station

Contented Ann Nefery, about 2½ years, slept more than two hours on a city police station cot yesterday while officers attempted to find her home. Found wandering at 9.15 a.m., she was cared for by a Denman street woman, who notified police at 1.15 p.m. After school Ann rode in a police car in the Denman area until children pointed to her home, 1777 Bay.—(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

'Rugby Scrum' at Claridge's

Diplomats Pushed, Elbowed At Fantastic Red Reception

Selwyn Lloyd Removed Bodily

LONDON (Reuters) — Nikita Krushchev and Nikolai Bulganin were the central figures Tuesday night in one of the most amazing receptions in London's diplomatic history.

Given by the Soviet embassy, the reception developed into what guests described as a "rugby scrum" or a "super sales - time scrimmage," in the palatial ballroom of the elegant Claridge's Hotel.

Glasses were crushed under foot, huge vases of flowers swayed dangerously and burly Soviet security guards bulldozed their way through nearly 2,000 distinguished guests.

Ambassadors, cabinet ministers, members of Parliament and heads the diplomatic corps were caught in a struggle to get through the Russian guard to see the Soviet leaders at close quarters.

MANY A SLIP

Wine and food were spilled on the gowns of society women.

At one point, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was moved bodily away from the ever - smiling Khrushchev.

During the evening Khrushchev brushed aside prominent guests to put comedian Charlie Chaplin in the limelight at this bizarre gathering.

The Russian Communist party secretary reserved his warmest greeting for the movie comedian and his wife, Oona.

"I am so very glad to meet you," he told Chaplin. "We have very great respect for your films in the Soviet Union. I have seen them all many times."

PUSH GUESTS

The two men clinked glasses in a toast while huge Russian bodyguards, acting on Khrushchev's orders, pushed aside guests to allow cameramen to record the scene.

The "storm" started while Khrushchev and Bulganin were talking with Prime Minister Eden and a few privileged guests in a small room at the end of the main reception hall.

As the 2,000 guests arrived it became known that the two guests of honor were in the far room.

About 200 persons tried to move through the large double doors, but were stopped by a group of six-foot-tall plainclothes Russian police.

Khrushchev's face set in a scowl as he shouldered his way up to Russian guests at the reception, muttering and protesting about what he called in Russian the "hamptso" — piggish — behavior of the British Laborites.

MORE VODKA!

Waiters whisked the Kremlin bosses into a private anteroom as the crush of the crowd increased. The doors slammed behind them, shutting off the teeming reception hall at Claridge's, fashionable London hotel, and Bulganin was heard demanding:

"What happened to the vodka? Give me another vodka!"

(Stanley Priddle, Reuters diplomatic correspondent, reported that the Russian leaders seemed certain to return to Moscow empty-handed. Tuesday morning, they held their last major meeting with Prime Minister Eden. Both sides refused to budge on issues like disarmament and the Western ban on strategic trading with Russia.)

Both British and Russian officials said Khrushchev was boiling over the treatment he got Monday night at a dinner given for him and Bulganin by leaders of the Labor party.

DIRECT QUESTION

Hugh Gaitskell, head of the Labor party, seized this semi-public occasion to ask Khrushchev point blank if he would help obtain the release of Social Democrats (socialists) imprisoned behind the Iron Curtain. Khrushchev replied testily that there were no Social Democrats in Russia and what happened to them in other countries was none of his business.

That reply undercut the Communists' campaign to build a "popular front" with socialists in the West.

Tuesday came a free-wheeling exchange with British legislators on trade and politics, at which Khrushchev finally threw up his hands.

"You may call me a pot," he said, "but don't put me on the stove."

New City TV Admits Risk To Channel 5

Representatives of Capital Television System told Victoria town planning commission last night that "we give no assurance" the city's TV station will not interfere with popular KING-TV, Seattle.

James Proudfoot, CKDA solicitor, said that if Victoria's channel 6 interfered with channel 5, "it will be in the majority of the city," but a "small gadget" could eliminate the trouble. Later, a commissioner said the "gadget" might cost TV set owners between $30 and $40 each.

The commission referred problem of rezoning four lots on Stevenson place, Smith's Hill, for the TV station to city council "as a matter of policy."

In doing so, the commission put aside a sub-committee recommendation in favor of rezoning the property. Hugh Stephen, sub-committee member, said this recommendation was made before 153 residents of the area submitted a petition opposing the TV site.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION

Five spokesmen for the residents told the commission that TV studios, transmitter and tower on Smith's Hill would cause traffic congestion, lower real estate values and cause interference with TV sets in the area.

There are 500 to 600 TV sets within one-half mile of the site, said Mrs. N. M. Fulton, 1155 Finlayson. This was "a $250,000 investment, bigger than the station itself and should be protected."

"This has been hurried through," she said. "Can the people not be given a chance to be heard, and if necessary, to vote?"

Mrs. Fulton added: "We are not against a television station. Victoria should definitely have one. But we are against it in any residential district."

Capital Television System will be incorporated for $1,000,000 with an initial cash investment of $300,000, Mr. Proudfoot disclosed.

He said the 100-foot tower would "not be an eyesore," and would be moved to Salt Spring island when the station is allowed to go to high power, "not later than 1958, I am sure."

Mr. Proudfoot said he had been advised by "all the engineers" that channel 6 will never interfere with channel 4.

"But five is a different problem," he said. "We give no assurance there. We would like to, but we can't.

"If there is interference, it will affect the majority of the city. There will be no more trouble at Smith's Hill than any other part of the city. We hope to eliminate interference completely."

Mr. Stephen said the sub-committee felt that if rezoning was approved, it should be made certain that the land reverts to residential use if TV or radio installations are ever removed.

"If this was any normal commercial enterprise," Mr. Stephen said, "I don't think one member of the commission would go for it."

However, he said, city officials are "evidently very anxious" to keep the TV station in the city for "prestige" reasons.

River's Gigantic Shortcut Pours into Menacing Red

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—A shallow lake 25 miles long and 10 miles wide, which was formed east of here by the ice-jammed Assiniboine river, is finding a partial outlet into the Red river at St. Norbett., 13 miles south of Winnipeg, Mayor H. L. Henderson said Tuesday night.

He made the comment after an aerial survey of the area between Portage la Prairie and Baie St. Paul, 30 miles from Winnipeg. He said flood waters were moving southeast through the La Salle river which empties into the Red.

THREAT TO CITY

Mayor Henderson said the development would add to the worries of Winnipeg residents who already face a flood forecast described as serious. Predictions of a flood peak in Winnipeg range from 27 to 30 feet above average river ice level. The Red river rose to 30.3 feet at Winnipeg in the disastrous 1950 flood.

Dirty water is at the back door and a towering dike at the front for about 40 Scotia street home owners who live so close to the threatening Red river that they had to be left outside the city's main flood defence.

Their hopes for escaping serious loss, for the second time in six years in some cases, depend on the whims of the river.

FIGHT OR LEAVE

Some are taking expensive steps to save their homes from the murky water. Others, finding themselves outside the main dike at the mercy of the river, have moved out.

One of the more imaginative flood protection moves is being taken by railway dining car steward J. P. Smith, who is thoroughly disgusted with the exposed position of the house he occupied until the 1950 flood and has rented to others since.

"We're going to get this every year," he said with a wave at the ice-dotted river. "I told my wife this house would wind up at Winnipeg Beach (on Lake Winnipeg downstream) anyway, so I'm moving it there."

Movers were at work already raising the house and hoped to have the tiny dwelling on its way by Thursday.

Another owner, who had already left his house, had a crew of men raising it on heavy timbers about six feet above the foundations, or about even with the level of the primary dike.

Residents along Wolseley avenue in west-central Winnipeg who protested a city plan to build a dike leaving 41 homes exposed to the Assiniboine river have been told they may build their own dike—where they want it.

City engineers were authorized Tuesday to move sand and sandbags into the area for the volunteer builders.

Danger In B.C. Easing

Provincial officials breathed easier yesterday as the near record snow pack in B.C. and the resulting high flood potential was reported fast disappearing.

"I'm very optimistic about the whole situation due to this wonderful weather," said Evan Jones, deputy highways minister. "The warm days and cool nights have slowed down the runoff from the high lands.

Red China Question Still Alive—Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Question of diplomatic recognition by Canada of Communist China is under constant review by the government, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday.

In a far-ranging, 95-minute discussion in the Commons external affairs committee, he also:

1. Welcomed as "encouraging and hopeful" the statement of U.S. State Secretary Dulles that NATO should be more than a military alliance.

2. Disclosed that the government is considering whether to ask the U.S. for corridors across the Alaska Panhandle.

3. Declared that it has been more difficult in the last two years to cross the Canada-U.S. border—both ways—and that administrative steps should be taken to open the border wider.

The minister also said the U.S. had agreed with his statement, made at the White Sulphur Springs conference last month, that UN members which recognize Peiping are becoming increasingly embarrassed by the presence of Nationalist China in the UN.

Nikita Real Boss Britons Convinced

LONDON (Reuters)—A week of watching Russia's leaders has made Britons certain of one thing—Nikita Khrushchev is the real boss in the Kremlin.

Beside him, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin seems little more than a dignified grey shadow who takes the first handshakes and makes the pleasant platitudes.

To correspondents, he seems a vaguely unhappy shadow. He smiles above that trim grey goatee only when a smile seems to be called for on the program.

DIPLOMAT MOLD

Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, is a character out of an entirely different mold.

During his trenchant speech in Birmingham Monday on the theme of "anything the West can do, Russia can do better," an English industrialist turned to reporters and whispered in some awe:

"That man wasn't born—he was welded."

HE IS TOUGH

Khrushchev, from the tone of his speech, was angry at the British refusal to scrap the embargoes on trade with Russia in strategic goods, angry at a man in the crowd he had seen shaking a fist at him, and angry at the generally cold welcome he and Bulganin have received in the streets of British cities.

An angry Khrushchev is not to be taken lightly. He is a small, portly man with a homespun face and a head bald except for short bristles of white hair. But he is tough.

It shows in his eyes and in his mouth. As he sits at official banquets listening to the conversation of the dignitaries beside him, his wide mouth is set in an expression that suggests a mixture of faint amusement, cynicism and boredom. His small eyes take in the whole room in a penetrating glance.

He has a sense of humor, but he does not laugh easily. When someone makes a sally he does not think particularly funny, his most polite response is to shrug his shoulders and turn his eyes upwards.

It is evident that neither of the Russian leaders likes having awkward questions about their policies shot at them unexpectedly during public appearances.

ALWAYS SAME

The effect is always the same. Bulganin looks around as Khrushchev and waits for him to answer. Khrushchev scowls and replies with great vigor.

This happened, for instance, at Harwell atomic research station when a young labor union official asked if Russia now was prepared to allow freedom of criticism to unions and religious denominations.

Khrushchev pushed past Bulganin and give an answer in an aggressive tone which amounted to "you mind your business and we will mind ours."

So far, Bulganin and Khrushchev have failed to put over the kind of charm that made their colleague, ex-premier Georgi Malenkov, the darling of English crowds when he came here last month as Soviet minister of power stations.

Light Frost Perhaps But Sun Too

Light frost may make an unseasonal appearance in Victoria early tomorrow, but the sunny spell will still go on and on and on.

Weatherman William Mackie reported last night that his weather station has not recorded more than .01 inches of rain in any single day for the last 18 days.

All-time rainless record for this time of year is 29 days, from March 29 to April 26, 1951.

Eight Children Die In Newfoundland Fire

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Eight children were burned to death here Tuesday in the most tragic fire in this city's history.

The victims were identified as children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Curtis. Their names were not immediately available.

Firemen said they ranged in age from infancy to 17 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis and two children escaped without serious injury.

The fire broke out about 10 p.m. and by midnight firemen had recovered five bodies. They are probing the ruins for the other three.

Observers said the fire "almost immediately consumed" the Curtis home. A fire department spokesman said it was believed to have originated from a light meter.

Winds May Pick Favorite Of Two Strait Bids Today

Winds may pick a favorite among two swimmers planning north-south strait crossings today.

Bill Muir of Saanich, who made five attempts without success last year, will start off at 7 a.m. from Saxe point, landing site for Bert Thomas when he swam north from Port Angeles July 7 and 8 last year.

Muir hopes to reach Race Rocks in the first 3½ hours in order to catch an ebb to Port Angeles. His best previous effort was 11 miles in four hours, 45 minutes.

Marathon newcomer Ben Laughren of Victoria, forced by tides to quit his first attempt a week ago after four hours, 25 minutes and 2¼ miles, plans a 4.30 p.m. departure from the east point of Horseshoe bay. His course: Southeast for the first two hours, thence south.

The weatherman does not expect winds of more than 10 miles an hour in the morning, except for occasional gusts after 10 a.m. However, in the afternon, westerly winds of 12 miles an hour, gusting to 15, are forecast.

Kirkwell Aster Offer Brings 7,000 Letters

An unprecedented response to the Kirkwell aster free seed offer by M. V. Chesnut poured more than 7,000 letters into The Daily Colonist office in a week.

As a result, the supply of seed—all that is available in North America—went to the first 4,000 readers to answer the offer.

But Ches immediately assured readers that the overflow demand would be filled with another popular and rare seed.

He is using Swiss hybrid pansy seed, which, Ches says, produces "saucer-size blooms and extraordinary purity of color."

All requests will have been filled by early next week.

Join the Fight To Conquer Cancer—Give Generously

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A GROWN-UP feels remarkably sheepish when he is struck down by an ailment of childhood.

At the age of 25 I was rushed to hospital with a fever and pains in the throat. Did I have one of those grave diseases which used to afflict the heroes of sad novels—the kind of complaint which demanded loving care by a beautiful and wealthy brunette?

No, I did not have any such disease. To be exact, the pain was more in the back of the neck than the throat. I had mumps.

I was in England at the time, living at the Canadian taxpayers' expense. They sent me to an isolation hospital, and made me lie still for 10 days.

Even if there had been a beautiful brunette clamoring to see me (and there wasn't) she would have been refused admittance. No visitors were allowed.

Childhood ailments contracted by an adult are undignified. They can also be dangerous. Dark hints were thrown to us new patients of the complications that would follow if we stirred from our beds. Older patients documented the warnings with alarming references to the fate of poor souls who had disobeyed orders.

So we lay still, exchanged jibes and pleasantries with the nurses and endured the sniggers of the wardmaids. My neighbor in the next bed was a young air gunner who had been an undertaker in civil life, and enjoyed talking about his work.

One day the doctor said I could leave. So I shaved off 10 days' beard (this was a civilian hospital, and its management was indulgent) and packed my few belongings.

"We'll have to fumigate everything," said the sister. I submitted all I had with me, except the diary which I had kept for the previous two years.

"Must you fumigate that?" I asked.

"Yes. Give it to me."

"No," I said.

"Look," said the sister. "I'm not interested in the contents of your diary. I won't read it. I just want to fumigate it, so that other people won't catch mumps."

I knew too much about women's curiosity to believe her. At least, I thought I did. But I tried to conceal my skepticism. After 15 or 20 minutes' fencing the sister agreed against her better judgment to let the diary go.

* * *

Spring had arrived while I was in hospital. The birds were singing, and trees were in flower. And so I walked out of the hospital into the Dorset sunlight, carrying some happy memories and a cargo of mumps germs riding on a diary which remained (in a double sense) unpurified.

Years have passed. I seem to have mislaid the diary. But if anyone finds it, perhaps the mumps germs still lurk in those pages to catch the intruder, like the curse of Tutankamen.

Canada and U.S. 'Share Brotherhood'

Canada and the United States understand each other, a Washington State Supreme Court judge said yesterday, because they have "the brotherhood that comes from the fatherhood of God."

Judge Matthew W. Hill, vice-president of the Olympia Kiwanis Club, addressed the Victoria Kiwanis Club luncheon in observance of Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week.

The special week has been observed by North American clubs for 35 years, since Kiwanis International established it to commemorate the Rush-Bagot treaty which demilitarized the Canada-U.S. border.

The friendship between the United States and Canada, Judge Hill said, was too much taken for granted.

"It's very easy to take things for granted that are really tremendous things."

Judge Hill traced the history of conflict along the boundary, that ended nearly a century ago.

"There's still a line there for immigration and customs," he said, "but as far as defence is concerned we are all in one program, recognizing that we are inextricably combined and must stand or fall together as far as this continent is concerned."

He called for courage and vigilance to preserve freedom in Canada and the United States, so that they might continue to serve as an example to the rest of the world.

Sidney Firm Low Bidder

SIDNEY — Tender of M. B. East, Sidney contractor, for construction of a new two-room elementary school at Deep Cove was accepted last night at a special meeting of the Saanich school board district 63.

Mr. East's bid of $22,977 was lowest of eight, and about $500 above the amount allowed in the building by-law. A contingency fund will provide the difference.

Election Talk Revived By Home Tax Aid Plan

Election talk was on the lips of many political observers yesterday in wake of an announcement by Premier W. A. C. Bennett that the provincial government planned to pay municipal taxes on the first $1,000 or $2,000 of assessment on residential property for every homeowner in B.C.

The premier clarified the move for reporters after a broad hint made during a speech to the Powell river board of trade.

Government officials in Victoria however could shed no light on the plan and said it was the first they had heard of it.

"I can't make head nor tail of it," said a finance official. "I have an idea some distortion has taken place somewhere."

Cabinet ministers and other officials said they had not heard of the move and could not comment in the absence of the premier who was on his way by boat to the smelter town of Kitimat.

EFFECTIVE NEXT YEAR

Premier Bennett said the new plan might be effective on next year's property taxes and that implementing legislation may be introduced at the next session.

He told board of trade members:

"We are thinking now of a further plan which can help the people and the municipalities. 'We want to give some kind of tax exemption to the small homeowners who are the solid core of our province."

Later he elaborated the plan for reporters.

He said the government was deciding whether multiple family dwellings such as duplexes and apartment buildings will receive benefits of the proposed legislation along with one-family dwellings.

Basically the proposal was understood to mean that on the first $1,000 or $2,000 of residential property assessment —the final figure not yet decided on — the municipalities would send the bill to the government not the taxpayer.

It would mean that a homeowner whose tax liability was $10,000 would pay taxes on only $9,000 or $8,000 of it.

INVOLVED WAY

Opposition leader Robert Strachan of the CCF said the move was a "rather involved way of preventing taxes from going up."

He said the Social Credit government's assessment equalization and new school formula probably made the premier realize taxes would go up within a year or two.

Asked if the announcement might mean an election in the offing, Mr. Strachan replied: "By golly it could. It did the last time he came out with an involved financial deal the people were hard put to to understand."

Liberal leader Arthur Laing took no such prompting. "He is going to have an election this summer," he said.

"This kind of talk can be explained only with a general election. I want the premier to tell the people plainly and honestly why he's thinking in terms of a general election when he has a clear majority of six seats in the house; when he says revenues are so good and when he's been in only three years," said Mr. Laing.

But Premier Bennett, still on a tour of B.C. scoffed at the election predictions.

"From time to time since we have been in power there has been announcement after announcement," he said. "With each one certain quarters predicted there will be an election as a result . . . There may be more surprises."

Asked why the exact figure—$1,000 or $2,000 exemption—had not been set, the premier commented "We want to keep them guessing."

New Westminster Mayor Fred Jackson pointed out yesterday that the move had been suggested seven or eight years ago in the union of B.C. Municipalities.

A resolution suggesting taxation on the first $1,000 be dropped was then presented.

'Needs Clarification'

Civic Officials Wary Of Comment on Plan

Civic officials were reluctant to comment on Premier Bennett's plan without more detailed information.

"It needs clarification' said Mayor Percy Scurrah, adding that he didn't know, for instance, if the government would make a new grant in lieu of taxes on residential assesments but decrease its other grants at the same time.

"Election coming," was a general reaction as aldermen and others reasoned that the result of the plan would be to shift the burden of taxation from the small property-owner, either to the larger property-owner or to all the producers of provincial revenue.

If the provincial government were to decrease or cut out its other grants, they reasoned, municipalities would still require the same revenues and would be obliged to raise their mill-rates, so that the burden would be shifted to the larger and non-residential property-owners in proportion to the value of their holdings.

If the present provincial grants for education and municipal aid were maintained, all residential property-owners would benefit, and the cost would be borne out of the provincial government's increasing revenue.

The cost, however, would be high. Victoria alone has about 15,000 homes. At last year's tax-rate, taxes on the first $1,000 of assessment on that number of houses would come to $637,500, and on the first $2,000, nearly twice that much.

Jet Engine Maker Optimistic

'We Belong Up Front in Aviation'

Canadians are not made to be "hangers-on" to anyone's coat-tail in aviation or anything else, the representative of Canada's only jet aircraft engine makers said in Victoria last night.

"I believe we belong up in front, among the pioneers," W. R. McLachlan, vice-president and general manager of Orenda Engines Ltd., Toronto, told the semi-annual convention of the Air Industries and Transport Association at the Empress hotel.

"We must outfit and grubstake and support and cheer on our explorers of the air for the air is now the world's frontier."

Mr. McLachlan suggested that technical and scientific training schemes in Britain should be applied to Canada to meet the urgent demand for more trained manpower.

"We need more training courses, more apprenticeship plans, more scholarships and closer co-operation between education and industry," he said.

"This is not only a matter of immediate concern to us, but it may have a decisive bearing on the future of our industry. It is all going to cost money, but it must be done.

"We are still bringing men into Canada because we are not yet able to train our own people adequately. We need more technicians, mechanics, designers, metallurgists and managers.

"The thing that hurts is that we have not yet got talent in enough depth."

Mr. McLachlan's company, a subsidiary of A. V. Roe (Canada) Ltd., manufactures engines for Avro CF-100s and Canadair Sabres.

With the recent sale of Orenda-powered Sabres to the South African Air Force, the Orenda became the first Canadian aero-engine ever to be sold for export.

Garden Notes

Elbow Room Vital to Plants

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

There are times when I get the idea that everybody on Vancouver Island must be reading this column—like when I'm giving away free seeds, for instance. And there are other times when I am quite sure that nobody at all reads it—for example, when I go wandering around other people's gardens in high summer and see their clumps of phlox and delphiniums and Michaelmas daisies all overgrown and congested, starved for light and elbow room.

I have been preaching the gospel of thinning the perennial shoots now for a good many years, but I don't seem to have been very successful in getting the idea across.

TOO MANY SHOOTS

At this season of the year, the perennial plants are sending up far more shoots than their roots can support to advantage. If allowed to go their own way, growth will be congested, stems will be thin and spindly, and flowers will be small and poorly formed.

While the growth is still young and tender, all the weaker shoots should be removed, pulling them away cleanly from their base. The remaining shoots, which should naturally be the most vigorous and healthy, will give surprising spikes of bloom under these less competitive conditions.

DEPENDS ON PLANT

I can't tell you how many shoots to destroy and how many to retain, for this will depend upon the kind of plant, the age of the clump, the condition of the soil, and many other factors. A reasonably good rule of thumb, though, would be to retain only one-third of the forest of shoots, always selecting the strongest and stoutest, and discarding the weak sisters.

I guess I have a bit of phobia in regard to this thinning business—my friends tell me I am overly drastic with my plants—but it hits me where it hurts, in the emotions, to see the pedigreed aristocrats of the perennial border trying to scrape a bare existence under congested slum conditions.

TRENCH AROUND PLANT

After the clumps have been thinned, I like to dig a little trench around the plant with the hand trowel, scraping away the old soil until the roots can be seen, and after pouring in a bucketful of weak fertilizer solution, the trench is filled in with a mixture of peat moss and clean, sweet garden loam, with a sprinkle of Vigoro added. New roots push rapidly into the ring of fresh soil, and the plant shoots ahead in surprising fashion.

For the tonic, use one level tablespoonful of soluble high-test fertilizer to each gallon of water. This can be Liqui-Life, Rapid-Gro, Folium, Old Gardener, Instant Vigoro, Hyponex, or any of the other proprietory porducts which come in small packages with big numbers on the label.

USE CLEAN LOAM

For the fill-in mixture, use one bucketful of clean loam, preferably from rotted sods or from the top layer of a well-worked vegetable patch, and one bucketful of slightly damp-bucketful of slimphtly dampened peat moss, plus one cupful of ordinary bag fertilizer. Mix thoroughly, so there are no islands of concentrated fertilizer in the mixture to damage tender young roots.

Stevenson Uses Red Rocket Boast To Hit GOP Reign

NEW YORK (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson charged yesterday Soviet boasts of success in developing hydrogen-bomb guided missiles are proof the Eisenhower administration has been "dangerously dilatory" in developing a U.S. guided missile program.

The Democratic presidential aspirant called for a speeding-up of the U.S. missile program so that the nation will not be "outdistanced" any further by the Soviet Union "and thus not make ourselves vulnerable to power blackmail."

"We've been outdistanced by the Soviet Union badly and have known about it for a long time," he said.

Stevenson told a news conference on his arrival here from Washington that the claim made by Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev in London yesterday "apparently is being accepted by officials here as substantially accurate."

Khrushchev said in London that the Soviet Union soon would have a guided missile with a hydrogen-bomb warhead that can land anywhere in the world.

Red Mine Sinks Red Ship

ROME (AP)—A responsible informant said yesterday that a Soviet cruiser was sunk by a Soviet minefield in the Baltic harbor of Kaliningrad Koenigsberg recently with heavy loss of life.

The disaster precipitated an intra-government dispute which led to the firing of Admiral Nikolai Kuznetsov as commander-in-chief of the Soviet navy, the source reported.

A dispatch from Moscow April 7 reported that Kuznetsov had been replaced by Admiral S. G. Gorshkov, wartime commander of the Soviet Black sea fleet. The dispatch, which passed through Russian censorship, said Kuznetsov was officially described as too ill for the job. The real story was described here as entirely different.

The Rome informant said that the lost cruiser was a former Italian vessel turned over to Russia as war reparations. He gave the name as the Novoshirsk.

Naval sources in Rome said Italy turned over the 7,300-ton cruiser Duca d'Aosta in 1948 to Russia. It had a normal complement of 560 men.

'Russia Wide Open to Nazis' Stalin Debunkers Charge

MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet ministry of defence charged yesterday that that late Josef Stalin left Russia wide open to Nazi attack in the Second World War despite warnings of the Soviet intelligence service.

An official publication said Stalin was responsible for the country's industrial unpreparedness. [illegible] declared the Soviet Union of "necessary weapons and munitions."

The magazine disclosed for the first time here the details of Stalin's failure to keep the Soviet Union alert against the threat of Hitler attacks.

It said Hitler's aggressive plans against Russia were "known to all."

"In the spring of 1941, the possibility (of invasion) became a real threat, attested to by numerous facts discovered in time by Soviet military intelligence," the magazine said.

"In particular it was known that an immense quantity of German Fascist troops, including a large tank formation, was concentrated along the western frontier of the U.S.S.R.

"Although the German Fascist aggression came as a surprise to the Soviet armed forces it could not in any case have been unexpected by the supreme leadership of the country, which at that time was concentrated entirely in the hands of Stalin."

The magazine said that unpreparedness was the reason for Soviet defeats in the initial stages of the war.

It explained that the so-called "active defense" which Stalin claimed was carried out by Soviet troops at the time was simply "battle-in-retreat" against an enemy numerically superior in men and materials.

'Gave Parcel to Accused'

Slain Bank Bandit Named At Police Murder Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — The name of Herbert Howerton, slain April 3 by police bullets in an abortive $10,500 bank holdup, was mentioned prominently here Tuesday at the trial of two men charged with murder.

Joseph Gordon, 34, was ordered not to communicate with anyone, "even with counsel" as he stepped from the witness stand at the end of the day's hearing.

Gordon and James Carey, 27, are charged in the gun slaying of Constable Gordon Sinclair here Dec. 7 and are being tried jointly.

Gordon said Howerton had given him a parcel containing shoes and trousers on the night the officer was killed.

PARCEL FOUND

Police testimony earlier in the trial said a brown paper parcel containing mud-stained shoes and trousers was found in Gordon's room and that the mud was similar to that near the slaying scene.

Tuesday, Gordon said the shoes and trousers belonged to him but that he had lent them to Howerton.

William Edwin Banks, another defence witness, said he was in the car with Howerton when the parcel was given to Gordon.

Two other defence witnesses said earlier they saw Gordon in downtown Vancouver about the time Constable Sinclair was shot.

David McNeely Ramsay said he was Gordon's room-mate at a hotel at that time, and that "about 6.15 or 6.20 p.m. I saw him rushing up the steps at the hotel."

LONG RECORD

Under cross-examination, the witness admitted eight convictions on criminal charges in the last 10 years.

Francis Dale, the other witness, claimed to have seen Gordon about five or 10 minutes after 6 p.m. outside a downtown hotel beer parlor.

Mulligan's 'Easy Out' 'Strange', Says Senator

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Thomas Reid said Tuesday night it is "strange" to him how former police chief Walter Mulligan of Vancouver was permitted to go to the United States before he could testify at a royal commission investigation into the city's police administration.

Speaking in the Senate, the British Columbia Liberal said American authorities are usually very particular about persons seeking landing certificates.

ILL-GOTTEN GAINS

"But here a man, faced with many accusations of graft, was able to secure a landing certificate, and now is in the south enjoying his ill-gotten gains.

"There is still some divided opinion as to whether he was innocent or guilty. But, as I have always said, an honest man has nothing to fear. . . .

"The fact that Mr. Mulligan has fled to the States lends credence to my belief, at least, that there was a considerable guilt on his part."

CHIDES BONNER

Senator Reid said he lays some blame at the door of B.C. Attorney-General Bonner, who ordered the Vancouver police investigation, for allowing the former chief to get out of the province. Mr. Mulligan should have been subpoenaed to appear before the investigating commission.

Senator Reid called on Solicitor-General Macdonald, government leader, to inform the Senate what the government plans to do about recommendations of a special narcotics committee last year.

Baby Ducks Arrive, Park Still Waiting

Spring is here and so are baby ducks. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Brammal, 4888 Wesley road, Saanich, yesterday reported seeing some wild mallard ducklings. Other young, from families of both ducks and swans, are expected to appear any day at Beacon Hill park.

'Lot of Nonsense'

Air Officials Deride Plane Dearth Report

Officials of the Air Industries and Transport Association here yesterday described as "nonsense" an Ottawa report that commercial operators haven't planes available to carry an airborne magnetometer.

The Ottawa story said the department of mines and technical surveys had developed a radical new magnetometer which would be used to improve magnetic charts in Canada, but neither the RCAF or commercial operators had planes available.

Robert Redmayne, general manager of AITA, said however: "Insofar as survey work is concerned there are three companies in Canada that could easily cope with that. There is absolutely no defence requirement in this respect of which the commercial aircraft industry is aware."

Other officials of AITA branded the report as "a lot of nonsense."

For Families in Need

ESQUIMALT council makes a point when it maintains that the people should not be asked to contribute twice to the Community Chest: once by way of voluntary donations and again through taxes. This was the position taken by the council in rejecting a request for a municipal grant to the Chest. On the other hand most of the organizations sustained by this consolidation of charities would have to be financed somehow, and if it were not for the existence of the Chest the welfare load on the taxpayers could become unsupportable. Through taxes also it is possible to reach those who could afford to help but do not.

The Family and Children's Service, one of the least publicized of the Community Chest agencies though the recipient of more than a third of the total fund, is a good example of the kind of work which contributions to the Chest make possible. The latest report of this service, to be presented at the annual meeting tomorrow night, gives some idea not only of the magnitude of its work but also the essential nature of it in a civilized community.

In the family division the service last year assisted in the rehabilitation of 621 distressed families and individuals; planned a new life for 181 unmarried mothers and their babies; gave financial assistance in emergencies; assisted the Red Cross in home emergency care in cases of illness; handled case reports at the request of the juvenile court and for various other official agencies, including the custody of children in divorce cases. The division for the care of children took over responsibility for delinquent children and for foster home care of neglected children committed by order of the juvenile court; provided many facilities for emotionally disturbed children, besides medical and dental attention, recreation opportunities and clothing in cases of need; and carried out adoption placement and supervision in hundreds of cases, which included full care in foster homes for more than 50,000 days while awaiting placement. In addition to all this the service maintained and administered the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp at Sooke to provide healthy holidays for needy children, the blind, the aged and the physically handicapped.

The cost of work of that sort in a community the size of Greater Victoria is heavy, but it would be a cold-hearted, selfish person who would permit it to be discontinued or curtailed on that account. If voluntary assistance falls short of the minimum that is needed, agencies like the Family and Children's Service must, through the Community Chest, turn somewhere for the balance. It is one of the most perplexing and distressing problems of modern times. If the municipalities decline aid, where else can the money be found to continue services which are the responsibility of the community?

A Last Great Service

A HISTORICAL work of unrivalled interest made its appearance in local bookstores this week, appropriately on April 23, the day of St. George and of Shakespeare. It is a day also now of Sir Winston Churchill, a figure qualified for inclusion in such a triumvirate, for it is the famous world leader and statesman who is the author of the work. The history embraces no less than the story of the English-speaking peoples from the dawn of British origins to the beginnings of the present century.

Such a theme is so immense in scope it would do credit to many a historian as the labor of a lifetime. In Sir Winston's case it has been produced as a by-product of a career amazing in its varied activity and accomplishment, but a by-product that in essence is the summation of all his vast efforts on behalf of the English-speaking races. Twenty years ago he began this history only to set it aside as war called him to stern and purposeful leadership. Now in the twilight of his years it has been completed and the first of the scheduled four volumes has appeared.

Even a cursory examination reveals the well-known powers of rhetoric and illumination. Events remembered only as dates and names spring to fresh life as this master writer relates them with an unequalled feeling for the pulse of history. Sir Winston says his book does not aim to rival the works of professional historians, but if that modest disclaimer makes him an amateur there can never have been another amateur like him. This is a work that will stand as a worthy monument to the man who wrote it.

One supposes that so valuable a history cannot be left out of the curriculum of British Columbia schools. It is not only a British history but also very much a Canadian, American and Commonwealth history, the story of how from a small Anglo-Saxon island there spread the flame of freedom and the concept of democracy which, as the author says, became the shining hope of the future of mankind. Like so many other things touched by his hand this vivid account of the English-speaking peoples is a landmark of our times. It is not the least of the immense services rendered by the great Churchill in the cause of those whose epic history he depicts with glowing pen.

How Far and How Much?

PREMIER BENNETT'S broad hint at Powell River that the provincial government is considering underwriting the first portion of municipal tax bills in British Columbia as a means of relief "to the small homeowners" has created immediate attention in civic circles. Mr. Bennett will be expected now to clarify the scope of the government's intentions. How far will the Province go in the relief of municipal tax bills, and how much will it cost the provincial taxpayers on that account? The money must come from somewhere, and to an extent more general than realized civic and provincial taxpayers in British Columbia can be the same people.

At the same time there is no question that the municipalities, with ever widening areas of responsibility and few, where any, accessions to new sources of revenue are pressed to balance their present budgets, let alone make adequate provision for the needs of the immediate future. Is the Province considering a general form of tax relief in a new deal for the municipalities, in addition to what has been done; or is the suggestion confined to help with some tax bills and not others? The former could involve an annual provincial outlay of several millions of dollars.

Pressed as they often are, the situation of homeowners in the province is only one facet of a much larger problem. For years the municipalities have been called upon to finance larger budgets out of virtually the same revenue sources they started with several decades ago. It is true that influx of settlement has given them a broader tax basis, but the same settlement has redoubled the cost of the public services the municipalities must supply. Schooling, for example, got beyond the purse of the cities and the Province has had to expand its help there. Land burdens are onerous and that may be the next step; but how far does Mr. Bennett's government intend to go in any new deal?

Interpreting the News

Reminder of Danger

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THE reaction of Nikita Khrushchev to his cool reception in Britain is a reminder of the dangers of trying to do business with a dictatorship.

Though Khrushchev may not be a dictator, the red-faced, shouting, angry man who made his threats in Birmingham Monday is top man of the Soviet "collective" dictatorship, and of International Communism.

As such, he is powerful after a fashion not attained by the heads of democratic governments, and therefore more dangerous.

"We have seen fists shaken at us," said Khrushchev of the British reception. "Never shake your fist at a Russian."

Then he shook a figurative fist with an atomic guided missile in it, capable, he said, of hitting "every point in the world."

* * *

It was a dramatic reminder of one of the fundamental disheartening things about all the talk of peace. There exists in the Soviet Union a small group of men—perhaps even one man—who, deliberately or in a rage, without consulting the wishes of the Russian people, can give a signal at any moment which would plunge the world into inconceivable horror.

All the talk of world settlements, all the talk of disarmament, all thought of co-existence with security, fades like a mirage as long as this fact exists.

Coupled with repeated emphasis on the Soviet determination to establish their Communist hierarchy over all other nations, this fact presents the West with an insoluble situation.

The depth of Khrushchev's irritation cannot be traced entirely to the repulses he and Bulganin have received from British crowds. These men are tough and practical. So are British workers, who are familiar with the workings of the Russian-sponsored World Federation of Trade Unions.

The workers have seen first hand the efforts of the WFTU to disrupt British production and British business, which means disruption of the prosperity they have enjoyed so briefly in the past 25 years. The motivation of the workers is clear.

The Russian leaders, on the other hand, are more perturbed about the failure of their official mission, which was to buy strategic goods and create friction between Britain and the United States in that and as many other ways as possible.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE song tells us that old soldiers never die but instead simply fade away. But the boys of the old brigade take some fading.

I spent an evening with a group of these hardy warriors last week. Some of them make the feet like a youngster; not that I had any objection to such a feeling. Indeed no.

One of them—listen to this—was 92 years old, and his back was as straight as when he first became a Royal Marine. Isn't that an age to be attending a reunion?

* * *

The years creep on. Have you ever stopped to think that a boy of 20 at the beginning of the last war—still a vivid memory to most adults—is now approaching 40? The majority of the younger crop of veterans are actually at the middle-age period of life.

* * *

Where does that put a man who first fought way back in the 80s, in the Sudan? Who was old enough to be a grandfather when he went overseas with the Winnipeg Rifles in 1914? Well, the other night it merely put him on his mettle. When the company sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow"—it was his birthday week—and pledged his health, his eyes twinkled as he held up his own loving-cup in reply and said: "If you put this spirit down it keeps your spirits up."

Do not misunderstand. His glass held only a wee tot and obviously he is filled with the kind of spirit that doesn't come in bottles. Why, he was so spry he went over to the Coronation three years ago—when he was 89!

* * *

The gathering was that of the Red Chevrons. Now if you're a Red Chevron you are something; you belong to a company that went overseas to a war zone before the end of 1914. That means all these old warriors hold the distinction of being in the volunteer van of those days. Some imperials were there; as Old Contemptibles or sailors on sea duty right off the bat in 1914 they are of the same totem.

Immensely proud of their chevron they all are, too.

* * *

I said that old soldiers were tough old chaps. Another one I chatted with was—well, he was only 83 but that's pretty good going, don't you think. He first put on a uniform with the KOSB (I hope that's right), and he spent 17 years in West Africa, around the Gold Coast and such places. That was a long time ago, in the era when this part of the world was known as the white man's grave. Some men are too stout of heart to become victims of either legend or fact, however, as I could note for myself while talking to this soft-spoken old soldier.

* * *

During the evening, naturally, there was musical entertainment. No veterans' reunion would be complete without collective rendition of favorite tunes like "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Tipperary," etc., songs that have gone round the world and stayed in popular memory. Strange how even today, with a second world war behind us, it is the first war songs that typify the soldiers at the front. I suppose it's because they were forged in a struggle that saw nearly everyone share the same experience and savor the same kind of reminiscence. The second war split comradeship into a dozen different compartments.

* * *

They called the roll at the Chevrons' dinner and every man stood as his unit was named. Then it was you saw what regimental esprit-de-corps means to a soldier. It's the cement that makes an army.

* * *

One of those present was an ex-Mountie, now a rosy-cheeked specimen of 70 summers and winters. In his youth he was a 4th Hussar (I think). When he retired after 26 years in the RCMP he was a sergeant and he has a pension of $91 a month. He was telling me, ruefully, that a Mountie sergeant now retires at perhaps $200 a month, which means that my friend chose to be born too soon. Some of his retired ilk tried to persuade the finance minister that they should get their pensions boosted, only to be told they should have saved up for their old age.

"Ye gods!" exclaimed my Red Chevron ex-Mountie. "What could you save out of 50 cents a day?"

In the matter of amenities you could say that all of the Red Chevrons were born too early, but they wouldn't have it any other way. They possess a rich military heritage they wouldn't be without; they share a prized memory of service above self.

Tip your hat to them.

New Light on Disarmament Chances

By W. N. EWER, from London

WILL the sudden change in the Russian attitude on disarmament break the nine years' deadlock and make possible at any rate some progress towards the reduction of armaments? It is still too early to speak with any confidence. But the change is certainly remarkable.

Since 1947 the Soviet government has insisted that the prohibition of the use of atomic or nuclear weapons must be a pre-condition for any program for the reduction of armaments. Since then all discussion has become bogged down in complicated, and so far insoluble, problems—technical as well as political—of atomic control.

Now Mr. Gromyko tables a new proposal which is in effect that the effort should be made to reach an agreement on the reduction, limitation and control of "conventional" armaments, leaving aside for the moment the whole question of nuclear weapons. If, it is suggested, the start could be made with "conventional" disarmament that should "facilitate" the later agreement about nuclear disarmament.

It was in fact Mr. Macmillan who, in Geneva last November, suggested that since a "comprehensive" disarmament agreement "covering all weapons and all countries" seemed for the time being unachievable, attention might be turned to the possibility of achieving "some more limited preliminary agreement that would enable disarmament to get under way." Such an agreement, said the British foreign secretary, "would have to concentrate principally though not exclusively on reductions in size of the armed forces and conventional armaments and controls necessary to supervise such measures." It is, one assumes, this suggestion which the Soviet government is indicating that it is now ready to accept.

* * *

But one has to note one difference. The Macmillan proposal was that the new effort should be principally but not exclusively concentrated on conventional armaments. What he had in mind, I gather, was that the scope of any agreement should include that part of the nuclear field in which effective controls are practically possible. What would be the possibility of control?

It was, if I remember rightly, Mr. Dulles who summed it up in a phrase that we should "disarm wherever we can control." On the other hand, the Gromyko proposal seems to be that the new effort should be concentrated exclusively on conventional armaments. The difference is a very important one.

Moreover there are other features of the new Russian plan which are very unlikely to be acceptable to the Western powers. But that was only to be expected. And these are all matters for discussion. The important thing seems to me that the Soviet government has dropped a demand which has blocked all progress for nine years and that it has adopted Mr. Macmillan's idea of starting with a "limited" program. That does open up at any rate possibilities which have not existed before.

* * *

At the same time optimism would be foolish. In the first place, as I have noted, there are many features of the Gromyko plan which are certainly unacceptable as they stand. Whether the difficulties which they present can be overcome by discussion and negotiation remains to be seen.

In the second place it is one thing to decide on an attempt to reach an agreement on the "reductions in size of the armed forces and conventional armaments"; quite another to reach such an agreement.

There has been a tendency recently to over-simplify the problem; to talk as if all that is required is to fix a limit for manpower of the forces of each of the great powers. That might have been roughly true 100 years ago when the fighting strength of the army could be measured in terms of the number of its "bayonets." It is very far from true today. There is a vast difference between the "military potential" of the armored division and the numerically equal number of "bayonets." Nor can the striking power of an air force be assessed by counting heads.

Mr. Macmillan made the point in Geneva in explaining his idea. "What," he asked, "would be the value of an agreement on reducing the levels of the armed forces in terms of men without providing for corresponding reductions in their armaments? . . . Real security implies that we should agree simultaneously on a scaling down of mass armies and of armaments which they use."

To reach such an agreement would at best be a difficult and complex operation. It is a chastening thought that the pre-war disarmament conference without any complications of nuclear weapons spent some three years in failing to achieve any result.

* * *

So it would be foolish to set one's hopes high or to overlook the bristling difficulties that still lie in the way of any effective measure of disarmament. But there is a change. One of the "road blocks" which have for so long barred any kind of progress does seem to have been lifted. And there should be at least a chance of trying to move forward along the new line which the British foreign secretary suggested five months ago.

Morality in Education

(From The Toronto Telegram)

WHEN school boards and teachers appear to be preoccupied with buildings and pedagogical techniques, it is well to have an educationist such as Sir Richard Livingstone, former vice-chancellor of Oxford University, point out that of even greater importance in the education of youth is the inculcation of high moral standards.

In a thought-provoking address to the Ontario Educational Association, Sir Richard stated that the greatest need in education today is to teach the knowledge of good and evil, for without this knowledge the use of all other skills is sterile. Youth must be taught to strive for excellence, but the labor is without direction and without foundation if it is not based on a knowledge of good and evil. Only by that knowledge is it possible to distinguish between excellence and cheapness, between virtue and vice.

These abstractions have their reflection in everyday life. People are honorable, decent, religious. The opposites are also evident, and Sir Richard suggests that a decline in values and standards accounts for them. Success today is an end in itself. How it is achieved is of small significance, and if the method is shabby and underhand it does not matter so long as one is not found out.

"Success" itself has as many meanings as there are people who seek it, and the meaning an individual gives it depends on that person's standards and sense of values. For this reason, Sir Richard emphasizes, nothing is of greater importance in the education of children than to give them a moral foundation upon which they may, knowing good from evil, build their lives.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

HEAVY and occasionally record snowfall such as Canada has experienced this past winter has a profound effect on the wild life of the nation. In every province, a systematic record of the snowfall has been kept, chiefly with an eye to the effect on fire hazard, spring runoff, growth of vegetation and survival of wild life.

The coming and going of wild life in relation to the severity of winter is something not generally taken into account by nature students and sportsmen. We imagine wild life to be equipped, in some broad, general fashion, to fit its environment. In the case of deer, for example, their own instinctive habits are the death of them in winters of heavy snow. The deer yard up in likely areas where food is abundant. But excessive snow imprisons them in their yards, and they soon eat themselves out of the available supply. Then starvation takes them in great numbers.

The introduction of exotic species of animals and plants depends for success on climate crises. The pheasant, for example, will not thrive in areas in which a total snowfall of 60 inches occurs.

It is not the exotics, however, that are holding the attention of Canada's wildlife management experts this spring. Census arrangements are already complete in various provinces by which some count can be taken of the devastation of the winter's excessive snow amongst the native animals, birds and plants. For in the runoff of the snow, depending on whether it comes suddenly or slowly, another period of devastation arises. Floods are destructive of all life, animal and vegetable. And if the floods of the runoff are too sudden, the forest is left dry for the ensuing menace of fire.

We are just beginning to appreciate the hazards of being a wild thing.

Kiwanis Village

If, as alleged, an applicant for Kiwanis Village accommodation was insulted, this is most regrettable and inexcusable. I feel sure that steps have been taken to prevent any recurrence of such an incident. However the excellent work and extension plans of the club should not be prejudiced.

There is a crying need for additional housing for senior citizens and it is cheering to note that the Kiwanis are doing something about the situation. Their original village plan was well conceived, efficiently carried out, and has brought happiness to many.

When their campaign for extension is launched I shall deem it a privilege to contribute and help with the canvas.

Red Cross Victory

The 1956 Red Cross campaign for funds has been successfully completed, and results exceed the objective of $78,000.

This has once more confirmed the fact that the work done by the Red Cross in peace and war, in Canada and internationally, is not being done in vain, and as such is being appreciated.

May we through your medium express our admiration for the time spent and efforts expended to the 800 volunteers who helped in the canvass, the publicity and the accounting.

Of course, to those who donated are also due our most hearty thanks, as after all the total reached is the summation of their individual contributions.

Campaign Chairman.

Want Amidst Plenty

The Daily Colonist continues to point out to its readers the privations suffered by our aged and low-income citizens, and the calm indifference of the Dominion government to their plight.

These citizens paid taxes to that government all their working lives. They built Canada; but, because of low earnings, they could not build their own reserve for their declining years. They cannot live on $40 a month, which goes to the wealthy as well as the indigent, and because they have lived too long to be employable. Mr. Paul Martin, minister of health, states that they now become the responsibility of any province in which they become resident.

The province of B.C., where so many of them wish to live, has a conscience in these matters and has done more than any other province to assist them.

Food is expensive here, and there is another step that perhaps would relieve the ugly situation where Canadians go hungry in this land of plenty: let us request a restoration of some of the surplus foods, already bought and paid for by our taxes, to be distributed through welfare channels, as is done in the United States, to those receiving social assistance or on low incomes.

Distributing sufficient food to our own hungry citizens is surely as necessary as any Colombo plan, and if the Dominion government prefers to sell it at cut-rate prices to our potential enemies, perhaps we could buy some CARE parcels from the United States. They are available for the underprivileged in any country.

Calculated To Kill

Recent local press releases by proponents of fluoridation showing "tasters" and their opinions will not have impressed the readers. Everyone knows poison can be masked; all are aware that "effect" (not "taste") lasts, often producing a multiplicity of dangers, some of them insidiously latent.

Not "slides" or "tasting" can rid a chemical of its component parts.

Calgary's medical health officer, Dr. W. H. Hill, has gone on record stating "fluoride is a poison calculated to kill, not acting in any two situations alike."

Dr. Hill further asserts that sodium fluoride was a protoplasmic and enzymatic poison, damaging digestive and other functions, one part of it in 15,000,000 parts water interfering with certain enzyme secretion. He pronounced it the most effective anti-coagulant of blood, and stated that eventually it became a cumulative poison, an individual's tolerance alone determining the time when damage would be apparent.

Citing that in some areas where fluoridated water was used 10 to 12 per cent of the children revealed mottled teeth, indicative of chronic fluoride poisoning, he ended by saying that "fluoridation was definitely calculated to be harmful to the aged." He advocated capsules containing the required amount be made available to those favoring fluoridation.

'Use Strength Carefully'

St. Laurent's Advice Angers Rail Union

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent Tuesday cautioned big unions about careful use of their economic weight, and rail union leaders promptly interpreted it as directed at them in their current contract dispute with the railways.

"Waving the big stick," rail union chief Frank H. Hall commented after Mr. St. Laurent delivered before the Canadian Labor Congress a carefully-phrased statement on the relationship of big business and big unions to the general economy.

BRIEF MENTION

Mr. St. Laurent, first prime minister to appear before a central labor body convention in a half century, spoke largely of his government's policies and devoted only a couple of hundred words to the big business-big unions theme. But that was enough to create a stir among delegates who included all union heads involved in the huge union-rail dispute.

Some said later that the place of his remarks and the time, with the struggle between railways and 150,000 non-operating workers coming to a boil, made it appear to them that he was referring indirectly but unmistakably to the rail situation.

The prime minister first spoke of giant corporations having to take into account the effects of their actions upon other industries and other segments of the national economy.

CONSIDER CONSEQUENCES

"In the field of labor," he added, "we are also seeing some of these consequences of bigness . . . A big union in an important sector of the economy has tremendous power at its command but in using it must consider the consequences of its actions upon the many others whom they will affect.

"I see an important function for your congress in assisting the unions to deal with this consequence of bigness and to help each to appraise the results of its various possible courses of action upon workers in other spheres and upon the community at large.

HARMONY, TOO

"You look to it, I am sure, to bring solidarity; let us also look to it to bring harmony and stability."

The "course of action" followed by the rail unions in 1950 was a general rail strike that partially paralyzed the economy. In a 1954 dispute, the government threatened to bring Parliament into emergency session for strike-outlawing legislation, and the unions submitted to compulsory arbitration.

Delegates Object

All But Two Points Settled In New Labor Constitution

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian Labor Congress delegates Tuesday hammered out all but two clauses of a constitution for the 1,000,000-member organization.

The 8,000-word document, to be completed later this week at the CLC's founding convention, will provide the charter for Canada's largest union organization.

The only two clauses of the draft document left in abeyance call for:

1. Banning Communist sympathizers as delegates to session of congress or its affiliated provincial federations' local councils.

2. Empowering the president to hire and set pay rates for congress organizers and representatives.

Various delegates took exception to both clauses, referred back to the officers for modification.

BAR REDS FROM OFFICE

A suggestion Communists should be barred only from CLC office or jobs, and not from sitting as delegates, appeared likely to be accepted.

On the second point, some exception was taken to vesting hiring power in the president alone, and it was suggested this be given to the CLC's 16-man executive council.

Among points adopted Tuesday were the establishment of officers' salaries on the following scales:

President, $14,000 a year; secretary-treasurer and executive vice-president, $12,000. They also would get out-of-pocket expenses.

The salaries are roughly the same as those received by officers of the Trades and Labor Congress, merging with the Canadian Congress of Labor to form the new group.

The CLC also authorized the establishment of nine congress departments, each headed by a director, covering organization, legislation, education, research, international affairs, government employees, political education, public relations and provincial federations and local councils.

The resolutions adopted Tuesday asked for:

1. Federal limitation on the interest rate on small loans to a maximum of one per cent a month on unpaid balances.

2. Provision by the federal government of long-term loans at low interest rates for the purchase of boats by fishermen.

3. Establishment of a federal bureau of standards for the protection of the consumer.

No Explanation

Allegiance Oath Quietly Dropped

TORONTO (CP)—Leaders of the new Canadian Labor Congress may not be obliged to swear allegiance to the Queen when taking office.

An oath pledging candidates for top offices of the 1,018,000-member organization to be "faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, her heirs and successors, according to law, so help me God," was quietly dropped Monday from the proposed CLC constitution.

No explanation was given to the convention for the deletion.

Two factors were considered responsible:

1. U.S. citizens wouldn't be able to hold top labor posts.

2. It was felt by some that the clause might be offensive to members of the Canadian and Catholic Federation, which is being urged to join the big labor body.

Overseas Wheat Exports Rise To 8,000,000 Bushel Record

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian overseas wheat clearances rose to 8,000,000 bushels for the week ended April 18, the board of grain commissioners said Tuesday. It was the best volume of the current year, reducing total visible wheat holdings to 329,900,000 bushels and bringing current supplies below levels a year ago of 331,200,000.

Farmers' marketings of wheat of 4,400,000 bushels for the week were slightly heavier than the previous week but below the 6,100,000 bushels delivered the same week last year.

The heavy exports further closed the gap between the current and year ago accumulative export totals. When navigation closed last December, overseas clearance total for 1955-56 was 21,000,000 bushels behind the previous year's total.

At the close of the week of April 18 the 1955-56 total amounted to 147,600,000—only 2,500,000 behind the 1954-55 total for the same date.

Eisenhower Depresses Stock Market

NEW YORK (UP)—President Eisenhower chilled the stock market when his administration ruled [illegible]

The market, on edge for several days, softened when the tax news came out. Earlier it had been moving irregularly.

Industrial shares, the worse losers, had their severest loss in about two weeks. Rails, recent strong spots, resisted pressure much better and gave up only a fraction in their average. Utilities continued their decline in progress for some time.

Trading picked up on the drop which amounted to as much as 3 points in some special shares, and a few big ones.

There were a few strong spots—Timken up 3 at a new high; American Brake Shoe issues up 1 to 2 points; Great Northern Paper, up more than a point.

Activity centred on such issues General Motors, Freuhauf Trailer, Southern Production, U.S. Steel and Kaiser Aluminum.

Steels eased as the time approached for the U.S. steel dividend meeting. Motors, except Ford, gave up fractions. Oils were mostly easier. So were the coppers.

Mining Stocks Slip

TORONTO (CP)—Dullness persisted through all divisions of the stock market Tuesday. Scattered strong spots appeared, but there was little to encourage the market generally. Western oils have been climbing strongly in the face of a threat to Middle East supplies. Even they wilted under the pressure on the market generally Tuesday, but it was an irregular decline and selected issues were strong.

Refining oils and constructions made some headway among industrials, but B-A Oil dropped $2.50 to $40.50.

Gains included $3.50 at $33.50 by Federal Grain on a 50-share block and $1.50 by Aluminium.

Mines losses ranged to $1.75 by Gaspe Copper, $1.50 by Mining Corp. and $1 by International Nickel.

McIntyre, up $1, was almost alone in showing a gain among senior mines.

Peace River advanced 52 cents to $10.12 in western oils. Del Rio, Central Leduc, Calalta, Canadian Export Gas and Petrol gained. Commoil and Triad lost 40 cents. Canso Oil, Canada Southern, Canadian Atlantic and Canadian Williston eased amounts up to 30 cents.

Weakness Near Close

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrial prices were narrowly lower at the close of active trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges. Some firmness noted early in the session faded during the noon hour.

B-A was the list's most active issue. It held a loss on the day of two points after posting a gain of 1¾ earlier in the session. Trans Mountain was a point better in the pipelines.

In a mixed base metal group, Aluminium advanced a point while International Nickel slipped 1¼ in moderate trading. The steels were mixed in a ¼-point range.

Fraser added a point as the papers scored narrow gains in quiet trading.

Prices fluctuated in a few-cent range in active trading in the mining-western oil section. Bouzan gained 30 cents, Del Rio 15 and Virginia 16.

Industrials Weaken

VANCOUVER—In a distinctly patchy session prices were widely mixed. B.C. Forest Products fell out of favor with a fair amount of trading at $18¼. Westminster Paper and Western Plywoods were also softer.

On the other hand Inland Natural gas trading heavily gained 40 cents during the session to close at $5.80.

Among mines Bralorne was in demand closing at $5.55. Bethlehem Copper made a new high of $1.60 before slipping back to $1.52. Cowichan Copper found buyers at a higher price of $2.83, but Trojan slumped to 61 cents.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Aggressive export demand for rye highlighted trade.

Outside reports indicated three cargoes of Canadian rye —about 1,000,000 bushels—had been sold to Germany, with East Germany mentioned as a destination for some of the grain.

In other overseas business, parcel lots of flax went to Japan and small quantities of barley to the United Kingdom.

In the pit, rye put on a strong display in active dealings. Oats and barley held to a narrow range. Flax firmed after early irregularity.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat and rye advanced on the board of trade but the rest of the market had an easier undertone.

Disappointment over the amount of moisture received in the winter wheat belt overnight, plus a rather pessimistic weekly weather bureau crop report, created a demand for wheat.

Unified Protestant Drive

Money-Raising Plan Outlined to Clerics

A method of raising money, which brought an average increase of 68 per cent in pledges when used by Woodstock and Stratford, Ont., churches last fall, was outlined to a group of Victoria and Vancouver Island United church clergymen and laymen Monday night.

Rev. Sherling J. Kitchen, associate secretary of the missionary and maintenance department of the United Church of Canada, explained the plan at a meeting in Metropolitan United church.

Under the system, known as the "sector plan," all Protestant churches, or alternatively all churches of one denomination, in a certain area conduct a unified 10-week campaign.

Specially-trained representatives of each church canvass every member of their congregations for pledges of money.

Rev. Kitchen said an interdenominational campaign is preferable because of the "greater sense of brotherhood" stimulated by a project which does not affect doctrine.

SEVENTEEN CHURCHES

In Woodstock and Stratford, eight United churches, four Presbyterian, four Baptist and one Anglican church co-operated in the sector plan.

Amount of pledges increased from 28 to 123 per cent for the individual churches, Mr. Kitchen said.

Ministers and laymen who attended the meeting will now report to their congregations. If enough congregations express interest in the plan, it may be instituted in the fall.

July 24 Set For Hanging

REGINA (BUP) — Jacob Dyck Monday night was found guilty of murder and sentenced to hang July 24 for the New Year's Day slaying in 1954 of 74-year-old Mike Todor in his Regina home.

It was the third trial for Dyck. The other two resulted in hung juries.

Assault Was Trivial: Merely a Pounding

Edward Martin pleaded guilty yesterday to assaulting Margaret Cervinek at 1526 Fell, Monday night, but explained in city police court it was "nothing serious, we were just having a fight."

A policeman said he found Martin holding the woman on a bed, "pounding her about the head and face."

Martin was fined $30 or 10 days in jail.

Warning Radar Chain Needs 300 Technicians

MONTREAL (CP)—Radio Electronic Television Schools announced Tuesday that it has been commissioned to provide about 300 radar technicians to maintain the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line in the far north.

President David Fingard of Toronto said the salary is $800 a month, with a $1,500 bonus on completion of the tour.

RETS has signed an agreement with Federal Electric Corporation to provide the technicians for the year beginning in June. The corporation is the main contractor for the United States government, which is installing and maintaining the DEW line.

Technicians accepted for DEW line work will undergo a two-month training period at Streator, Ill., before being posted to the line.

CHANGE OF POLICY: At its annual meeting, held earlier this month, the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club voted unanimously for a change in policy which will permit members to win trophies and buttons for spring salmon caught on herring strip.

While herring strip has always been a legal lure and used extensively in Cowichan bay ever since it became popular, the CBSC refused to permit its use in club derbies or to give trophies or buttons for salmon caught by any other than artificial lures. However, the club membership has dwindled considerably and officials feel that one of the main reasons for the decrease was the ban on the use of strip.

It is still the feeling of most club officials that the use of herring strip should be banned in Cowichan bay, but they no longer feel that there is any sense in banning it to club members. In fact, it is the hope that the end of the club ban might help bring legislation banning the use of strip in areas where spawning salmon congregate.

As far as the CBSC is concerned, use of strip will be permitted only for spring salmon derbies, trophies and buttons. Strip will be banned in coho derbies and coho trophies and buttons will be only for coho taken on bucktail flies.

ELECT TOM MERRICK: A well-known angler, Tom Merrick, was elected president at the meeting. He succeeds Jack Phillips, who received a hearty vote of thanks for his efforts on behalf of the club during the past two years.

Roy Heyd and Danny Taylor were elected first and second vice-presidents, respectively. Re-elected were secretary Mrs. Doris Lawrence and J. K. Stewart, treasurer. Jim Green, George Hauk and Elmer Thompson were elected club directors.

Merrick and his executive have embarked on an all-out effort to increase club membership and to do everything possible to improve fishing and fishing conditions in Cowichan bay.

* * *

A SUGGESTION: In the latter regard, one big effort would be to try and improve the angling manners of many of the fishermen who hunt salmon in Cowichan bay. One of the finest fishing spots on Vancouver Island, Cowichan bay's popularity has suffered considerably in the past few years because of the actions of a great number of anglers who are either ignorant of accepted ethics or who don't give a hoot in their urgency to catch a fish.

Conditions were particularly bad last year and it was often impossible to fish properly because of boats cutting in and out of the accepted path of boat traffic. Anyone who hooked a salmon in the middle of a jam found it the exception rather than the rule when anglers closest to him reeled in lines and got out of the way to give him a chance.

Worst of all were the moochers and still fishermen, who either drifted through or anchored their boats in the best spots without regard for the trollers, who were in the overwhelming majority.

Mooching and still fishing are both legal and effective ways of catching salmon but they certainly shouldn't be practiced in a confined area such as Cowichan bay unless it's done well away from the heavy boat traffic. Just what can be done about it is something of a problem but it is certainly spoiling the fishing for many at Cowichan bay.

* * *

FISHLESS FUN: Victoria Gyros proved (again) Sunday that fishing can be a lot of fun without fish. Twenty or thirty, no one is quite certain how many, ranged from Canoe cove to Porlier pass in a club salmon hunt which didn't do much damage to the salmon population.

There were wild rumors that the crew of Len Woodhouse's boat had actually caught eight bluebacks but no one showed up at Ming's Kitchen for the prize presentation to substantiate the report. First prize, a bit amazingly, was won by Bill Johnston, who foul-hooked, according to Ed McKenzie, a three-pound, 10-ounce jackspring and then outfought it to claim credit for catching the first fish in Ted Davis' new boat and win one of Hec Robson's shirts.

However, most came back with no piscatorial proof of their claims. Typical was the situation aboard Fred McLeod's Nirvana, whose crew included such famous anglers as George Gregory, Bart Carson, Herb Brown, Bill Fergie, Pete Whittlesey, and Jim Kininmonth. Despite the presence of a reputable guide, the total catch was one unwary blueback who made a mistake when he saw what Herb was trailing on his line. No one was proud except the guide, who went home believing he had done extremely well under trying circumstances, and Herb, who could claim the championship of the Nirvana, and did.

Yankees Stretch Lead On Victory Over Nats

New York Yankees put together two home runs, one of them a three-run blast by Hank Bauer, and five double plays Tuesday to down Washington Senators, 4-1, for their sixth victory in seven American League starts.

Detroit Tigers downed Kansas City Athletics 7-4 in the only other American League game played while the St. Louis Cardinals climbed into fourth place in the National League with a 5-3 triumph over Cincinnati. Three other National League games, and one American League contest were postponed because of cold weather or rain.

The Yankees broke loose against loser Chuck Stobbs in the fourth inning. Joe Collins singled and after two were out, pitcher Johnny Kucks chipped in with a hit. Bauer then lined his homer into the lower left field stands. Yogi Berra hit his fourth round-tripper of the season into the lower right field seats in the Yankee seventh.

TIES RECORD

The combination of Gil McDougald, Jerry Lumpe and Bill Skowron rattled off four of the twin killings, effectively throttling various Senator threats before they could get under way. Shortstop Lumpe, who had a busy day with 15 chances, tied a major league record by participating in the five double plays.

Reno Bertoia, 24-year-old second baseman from Windsor, Ont., pounded a home run and two singles for the Tigers. Bertoia, whose weak hitting has hampered his bid for Detroit's regular second base job, was on base when Bill Tuttle homered in the fourth inning. He socked his own four-bagger in the eighth.

GROMEK WINS

Veteran Steve Gromek went all the way for the winners. He gave up a single run in the first inning and then blanked the As until Vic Power clouted a two-run homer in the seventh.

Sophomore Ken Boyer walloped a three-run homer off Cincinnati rookie Pat Scantlebury in the first inning to get the Cards off to a lead they never relinquished. Vinegar Bend Mizell had a shutout until the eighth when Redleg Ray Jablonski tapped him for a three-run homer. It was the fifth of the season for the ex-Card third baseman.

Sold to Bruins

Speculation Follows Purchase of Bionda

Jack Bionda may not be in Victoria for the lacrosse season but there is the possibility that he may be seen in action here during the next Western Hockey League season.

Bionda, most colorful player in the Inter-City Lacrosse League during the past two seasons, is also a hockey player of some ability. He played a few games for Toronton Maple Leafs this past season before being sent to the Leafs' American Hockey League farm club at Pittsburgh.

Yesterday, the Leafs announced that he had been sold to the Boston Bruins, causing immediate speculation as to whether or not Bionda would eventually wind up with Victoria Cougars.

That, of course, will depend on whether or not Bionda is ready to play regularly in the National Hockey League. However, if he should be farmed out for further experience, there is a good chance that he may be sent to Victoria.

Bruins have a working agreement with the Cougars and the Cougars are planning to add as much color as possible for next season. Bionda would be a great asset and there is little doubt but that the Victoria club will make every effort to procure his services if they are available.

Speaking Briefly

Tonga Belter KO's Cockell; Kid Gavilan Avenges Defeat

Cuba's Kid Gavilan, former world welterweight champion, last night avenged his disputed loss to Peter Waterman Feb. 7 by punching out a decisive 10-round decision over the British fighter at London.

However, most of the excitement on an all-star international program at Earls Court Stadium occurred earlier in the evening when British heavyweight champion Don Cockell and his top-ranked challenger, Jack Gardner, both suffered humiliating defeats.

Kitiose Lave, an unheralded boxer from the island of Tonga in the south Pacific, ruined Cockell's hopes of a return bout with world champion Rocky Marciano when he knocked the pudgy Briton down six times in scoring a second-round knockout over the man who lasted nine rounds against Marciano last May.

Then Joe Bygraves, an equally obscure heavyweight from Jamaica, scored a second-round technical knockout over Gardner when the Englishman suffered a deep eye cut.

In the main event, Gavilan twice knocked Waterman to the canvas, bloodied his nose and cut him severely about the face. The capacity crowd cheered Gavilan and the decision at the finish.

OPPONENTS FOR LANDY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Oregon's two milers, Jim Bailey and Bill Dellinger, will run against Australia's John Landy in a special mile May 5 at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, the University of Southern California announced Monday.

Warriors Test Royals As Puck Final Opens

CALGARY (CP)—East meets West here tonight in the third renewal of the Edinburgh Trophy series.

Winnipeg Warriors, fresh from their victory over Vancouver Canucks in the Western Hockey League final, will oppose Montreal Royals who captured the eastern championship by defeating Shawinigan Falls, the defending Edinburgh Trophy holders.

Second game in the best-of-nine series will be played in Edmonton Friday night and third game back here Saturday night. The scene then shifts to Winnipeg.

Warriors will go into the opener as slight favorites over the Montreal crew.

They arrived in Calgary Tuesday morning and should be well rested by the time the opening whistle sounds tonight. Royals, on the other hand, left Montreal by train Sunday night and arrive early today.

PIN HOPES ON McNEIL

Reports from the Montreal-Shawinigan playoff indicate the Royals will pin the majority of their hopes on the netminding of Gerry McNeil. The former Montreal Canadiens netminder was a dominant factor as Royals sidelined the defending champions and it's expected he will give Alf Pike's sharpshooters plenty of trouble.

Pike is quite cognizant of McNeil's prowess.

"Our scouts tell us he's been sensational," Pike said Tuesday. "They've also got Bud MacPherson and Baldy McKay who aren't long out of the National League."

Pike's squad came through the Vancouver series without any serious injury. Only questionable starter is captain and defenceman Fred Shero who did not see action against Vancouver following a back injury in the playoff against Calgary Stampeders.

The powerful Warriors dominated the playoff scoring statistics with Winnipeg players holding down the first five positions. Mike Nykoluk set the pace with 10 goals and 12 assists while Paul Masnick picked up 20 points including 11 goals; Skippy Burchell had 19 points, Bill Mosienko collected 18 points and Ed Mazur picked up 17.

Wins Trophy

EARL "DUTCH" REIBEL
Hustling centre of the Stanley Cup champion Detroit Red Wings who spent only 10 minutes in the penalty box this season, Earl "Dutch" Reibel has been named winner of the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy, awarded to the player adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship combined with a high standard of playing ability. Reibel received 100 of a possible 180 points while Floyd Curry of Montreal, Johnny Wilson of Chicago and Andy Hebenton of New York followed in that order.

School Soccer Final Carded for Saturday

Victoria High School and Vancouver Technical School will battle for the provincial high school championship in the opening match of a soccer "doubleheader" at Royal Athletic park Saturday afternoon.

In the second game, Butler Brothers and Brodie's Bakery will clash in the final round of the Jackson Cup competition. Butlers, first-place finishers in the second division, have lost only two matches during the Victoria and District Football League season. The Bakers wound up in third place in the second division.

All proceeds from the matches will go to the VDFL injured players' fund.

Vic High, which retained the Colonist Cup by downing Oak Bay, 2-0, in the deciding game of the best-of-three Victoria final Monday, will be up against a powerful club in its bid for the B.C. crown.

Coach Bert Russell's mainland champions carries three players—fullback Bob Hazeldine, halfback Terry McKibben and centre-forward Jim Blundell—who are touted as ready to step into senior company and Technical will probably be favored in Saturday's tussle, which starts at 1 p.m.

Ray Soon guards the Tech nets with Dennis Kozar and Hazeldine providing his fullback protection. McKibben works with Bob Allen and Gerry Marsden on the half line while Blundell pivots the forward unit which has Henry Lyska and Ron Starka on the wings and Ray Nosella and Tony Nowitsky at the inside positions.

Listed as reserves for the Vancouver club are John Ferguson, Norm Davies and Ted Skodje.

Players Keyed Up

Murph's Work Edict Gripes Chatham Club

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Chatham Maroons went back to coach Murph Chamberlain's training recipe of "all work and no play" Tuesday night as they prepared for their fourth Allan Cup game tonight against Vernon Canadians.

Canadians hold a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series to decide the top senior amateur hockey team in Canada. Fourth game will be played in Kamloops.

Chamberlain allowed the Maroons their first break from his hard-and-fast training program Monday night when the city of Kelowna threw a buffet supper for the team.

"I never allow them to get too familiar," he said, "that's the reason I pulled the team out of Vernon."

Maroons stayed in Vernon for the first couple of games, but will make Kelowna their headquarters for the rest of the series.

PLAYERS GRUMBLE

Several of the Maroons, however, do not agree with Chamberlain's formula for training. None would allow his name to be used, but a half dozen said the team was "too keyed up."

"During the league most of us worked and some travelled 120 miles each way to play hockey three times a week," one player said. "Now we're getting too much rest, we can't sleep at night."

"If we could get rid of some of the tension that's building up . . . we might be able to play better hockey."

A suggestion that the team go fishing Tuesday on Okanagan lake was vetoed by Chamberlain.

"Fishing," he exclaimed, "definitely not. They've had the night out, now it's back to rigid training."

Golf Lessons At Gorge Vale

Gorge Golf Club has announced plans to hold another spring series of classes, designed to help beginners by instruction in golf fundamentals.

Well attended in the past two years, this year's classes will be held on Tuesday evenings at 7, starting May 8. Six lessons will be given for a nominal fee.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning the club.

Par Competition

Mrs. Harold Husband won the silver division of a monthly par competition at the Victoria Golf Club Tuesday, finishing three down to regulation figures.

Mrs. R. E. Baiss took bronze division honors, 2 up.

Team Selected For Swim Meet

YMCA swimming coach Archie McKinnon announced yesterday that a tentative team of 13 girls has been selected to compete in the Pacific Northwest YMCA girls' swimming championships at Bremerton, May 5.

McKinnon has called an important workout for the girls tonight at the YMCA pool at 8 p.m. Asked to turn out are Janie Wheaton, J. Botterell, Patricia Holland, Patricia Morrison, Sally Holland, Alice Genge, Gail Parker, Michal Munro, Kiwi Westinghouse, Jill Denny, Adele Parker, Sheri Stott, Keith McAllister.

Remember When:

Bill Quackenbush, great Detroit defenceman, was awarded the Lady Byng Trophy seven years ago today for the NHL's player best combining gentlemanly conduct with high playing ability. The first defenceman to win the trophy, Quackenbush had just played a full 60-game schedule without incurring a single penalty.

Seattle Rainiers, playing before home fans for the first time this season, clung to first place in the Pacific Coast Baseball League by splitting a day-night doubleheader with the San Francisco Seals.

More than 10,000 fans watched each game and saw the Rainiers win the opener, 13-3, behind the brilliant relief pitching of Ernie Atkins but lose the nightcap, 9-5, when Ed Sadowski smashed a grand-slam homer in the seventh inning off ace reliefer Larry Jansen.

Vancouver Mounties snapped a three-game losing streak, tripping Hollywood Stars, 9-2, at Hollywood.

Ted Reynolds Leaves CJVI For Vancouver

Veteran Victoria sportscaster Ted Reynolds will join Vancouver television station CBUT this week, radio station CJVI announced yesterday.

Successor was not named, but The Daily Colonist learned he was expected to be J. A. "Red" McMillan, who resigned after coaching Victoria Shamrocks to the Canadian lacrosse championship last year.

McMillan would handle all CJVI sports. His first major task would be broadcasting Shamrock home games this season.

Reynolds has been with CJVI for almost nine years, and has broadcast hockey, baseball, soccer, lacrosse and other sports. Also joining CBC, Vancouver, is announcer Brian O'Brien, who came to CJVI from Calgary in 1953.

Baseball Meeting

Organizational meeting of the Eagles baseball club will be held at Macdonald park tonight at 6.

All last year's players and others interested are invited to attend. It is expected that both under-19 and senior players will be with the club.

Heaneys Edge Ladysmith XI

Two lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association teams won exhibition matches Sunday by shutout scores.

Heaneys of Division V blanked Ladysmith, 1-0, at Heywood Avenue park on Al Dand's goal in the second half. Gerry Booth, Don West and Ricky Blake scored for Canadian Scottish as the Division III team thumped HMCS Venture juniors, 3-0.

Canadian Horse Rated Derby Threat

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Canadian sportsman Max Bell has another Epsom Derby hope on his hands.

Calgary Court, a promising colt named after Bell's home town, has entered the Derby market as a 25-to-1 chance—solely on the strength of some sparkling workouts. The price is a remarkably short one for a colt that has only run once in his life, but the bookies are taking no liberties in an open year.

Calgary Court, by Supreme Court out of Anna Lucasta, was purchased for 8,000 guineas at the 1954 Doncaster sales. He was a warm favorite to win his only race as a two-year-old but was beaten by Midsummer Fair. He makes his 1956 debut today in an 8½-furlong race at Epsom, where the derby will run June 6.

Sporting Record, a weekly publication, says there has been a "significant move" for Calgary Court in the Derby market. This brought him to a shorter price than his two stablemates, Al-Mojannen and Hakim Hafiz, quoted at 30 to 1 and 40 to 1 respectively. The three horses are in different ownership, but all three are trained in Ireland by P. J. (Paddy) Prendergast.

Another Canadian-owned horse among the Derby entries is Pipe Royal, owned by J. E. Armstrong of Brampton, Ont. Pipe Royal has not been given a Derby quotation and on his record seems unlikely to run.

The Derby is regarded here as the world's greatest flat race. Bell's two previous entries in the classic, Blue Sail in 1954 and Indian Hemp in 1952, did not place.

It is believed the only other Canadian-owned entry in the long history of the derby—first run in 1780—was Kel D'Or, owned by the late Ray Dale who farmed and raised horses in the Qu'Appelle valley of Saskatchewan. Kel D'Or, a Canadian-bred, finished last in the 1911 Derby, won by Sunstar.

KERR'S IMPRESSIVE RECORD: The emergence of Laurie Kerr and Vince Clarkson as the finalists of the Island Open makes it certain that there will be a new holder of the title, but the successes of these two fine young Royal Colwood players cannot have come as a complete surprise to those who have watched them carefully.

Kerr last year was a hot favorite to win the title until he was beaten in the third round by Hugh Morrison, but he followed it up by taking the city amateur.

This year, since recovering from an operation, Kerr has been more consistent than ever. He finished runner-up to Fleming in the second winter medal—he did not play in the first of these—and then he finished fourth in the qualifying round of the Island Open with a 75.

In defeating Bill McColl by a smashing 8 and 7 margin in the 36-hole semi-final last Sunday, Kerr may have been aided by the fact that McColl had been taking the edge off his keenness by playing with a lot of long-handicappers in the Empress tournament.

Yet Kerr played solid golf and at the close was only three over par on a course which had tricky and uneven greens. He is unquestionably a worthy finalist.

So too is Vince Clarkson, a powerful swinger for whom this is a first big chance to implant his name on the records.

Clarkson has improved considerably in the past few months, and although he scrambled into the championship with an 81 qualifying round his golf since then has been impressive. He has beaten Norm Boden, Bobby Woods, Dr. George Bigelow and Ted Colgate in successive rounds.

In the match against Bigelow when he was two down with three to go, he showed tremendous courage, while against Colgate, a previous Open champion, he led most of the way and showed he could protect a winning lead.

The final over 36 holes will be played over Gorge Vale Sunday, and the long-hitting requirements of this hilly course will probably favor the man who can pull out the big shots when required.

In this respect Kerr with his more compact swing and controlled power may have an advantage, and I think that together with his extra experience it may carry him through.

THIS RECORD LOOKS SAFE: When the B.C. Amateur championship is played here May 18-21 it will be returning to the place of its birth.

One of the oldest competitions in the North American continent, it was instituted in 1895 at the Victoria Golf Club, and it was one of the members of the venerable institution who put up the Bostock Cup that bears his name.

The trophy itself—not unlike the "pot" that symbolizes the Open Championship (British)—is not a highly impressive looking object, but it is a veritable antique with a wonderful history.

No matter what happens in the future, no one is ever likely to beat the record of Harvey Combe, the Victoria club member who has his name inscribed on the trophy nine times, beginning in 1897. Competition in those days was neither so extensive or intense as it is today, but Mr. Combe, like his daughter, Nora Patterson, was an excellent player of the old days of the gutty and Haskell balls.

* * *

NEW CHAMPION EXPECTED: It is extremely long odds that at the Gorge Vale Club, where this year's tournament is to be played, a new B.C. champion will emanate.

Lyle Crawford, the Vancouver youngster who won the trophy in 1954 and 1955, is now no longer eligible because he is a professional. So is Bill Mawhinney, winner in 1951 and 1952, while Jim Squires, winner in 1950, is no longer on the local golfing scene.

That leaves the 1953 champion—Bobby Fleming—as the most likely of the past champions in contention.

On his own course, Bobby must have a distinct chance, but it is clear that the Gorge Vale ace is lacking his old consistency and match-play determination. His Island Open championship defeat by Bill McColl last Sunday was an example.

At the moment Bill McColl and Laurie Kerr look like being the Island's most likely challengers for the provincial crown. But of that, more anon.

* * *

CLUB COMPETITIONS START: Two important club competitions are due to start this weekend.

At Victoria the qualifying round of the club championship will be played over 18 holes Saturday. The "A" championship is for players of up to 12 handicap and the "B" championship for those with handicaps of 13 and over.

At Uplands Sunday the first round of the Uplands cup will be staged, with the second round on the following Sunday. This is a 36-hole medal event.

* * *

MANY APPLICANTS FOR SECRETARYSHIP: Alex Hendry, president of Royal Colwood, tells me he has received a fair number of applications for the job of secretary-manager rendered vacant by the departure of Derek Rhys-Jones, who is joining VMD. The applications have yet to be screened.

* * *

NEW RECORD AT OAK BAY: Doug Munro, the junior champion of the Victoria Golf Club, set up a new junior record for the course yesterday. In a friendly match with Cliff Horwood and Jack Galbraith he completed the circuit in 68—one below par. I am told every putt was holed out.

Doug, who has been shaping as one of Victoria's most promising young golfers, has on several occasions come near to par, but this is the first time he has broken into the sixties.

His score was.....525 444 432—33
446 334 443—35—68

This represented four birdies and three bogies.

* * *

STARS FLOCK TO COLWOOD: What it may lack in numbers the Royal Colwood Golf Club certainly makes up in quality. I noted at the weekend Bobby Woods playing in the Colwood team against Oak Bay. Like Vince Clarkson, Bobby last year played with Gorge Vale and before that he was with Uplands.

With a few notable exceptions, the Colwood club now has all the low-handicap men in the district. They should be absolutely invincible in local inter-club games.

Victoria Little League baseball managers and coaches last night announced their team rosters after making players selections for the coming season during the National and American league player "auctions" last weekend.

Farmers Open Against Bells; Courtenay Pitcher Joins Club

In principle, Ed Ash, manager of the Farmer Construction baseball club, apparently believes in the old saying, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

Farmers, favored to take home top prize money in the baseball tournament at Courtenay last season, were stopped cold by the pitching of Ron Lund and bounced into second place by the Courtenay club.

NEXT BEST THING

Ed, who will be guiding his club in the new Northwestern International League this year didn't pack up and move to Courtenay but he did the next best thing. He got Ron to do the packing and Lund will be serving up his right-handed slants for the Victoria club when Farmers open their season with an afternoon - night twin bill against Bellingham Bells at Royal Athletic park May 21.

Ash was all smiles yesterday when he discussed his potential pitching talent.

In addition to Lund, he has added "Jake" Jacobsen, pitching and batting star with the junior Sidney Legion club last summer, Des Mosely and Keith Todd to his hurling staff.

PRIOR RETURNS

Back for another season are right-handers Bill Prior and Paul Beck and southpaw servers Bill Garner, Lowell Hodges and Fred Christiansen. Lefthander Don Donahue, out with a badly cut arm, is expected to be back in action before mid-season.

Ash's smiles haven't all been reserved for the pitching corps. The hitting of outfielder Charlie Boyd, third - baseman Stu Mitchell and shortstop Ron Karadimas during inter-squad games has also raised his spirits a few notches.

Farmers will go through a practice session at Athletic park tomorrow evening and Ash will send his approximately 25 candidates through inter-squad games Saturday and Sunday mornings.

BUSY TWO DAYS

Second league appearance for Farmers will start a rugged two days. They host Deming which has eight members of the former team in its lineup, in a doubleheader at Athletic park May 26. They are due at Burnaby for an afternoon game the following day and then have to hustle to Bellingham for an evening tussle against the Bells.

Other teams in the seven-club loop are Vancouver White Spots, Cheney Suds of Tacoma and Al Brightman's Seattle Restaurants, who will be here for a twin bill on June 2.

Burnaby is scheduled for a single game in Victoria May 31.

Donnybrook Principals Liable to Stiff Penalty

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Philip McDonald, 23, and Vincent Munroe, 27, principals in a simmering feud which exploded last week, were remanded Monday to April 30 on charges of holding a prize fight.

Police say the two men met to fight last Tuesday on the main street of Warren, a village 35 miles east of here. Before the dust settled 18 persons were involved and one man was taken to hospital with a broken leg.

Neither young man was asked to plead Monday and no evidence was presented.

The charge, under a seldom-used section of the Criminal Code which defines a prize fight as "a fight to the finish," carries a maximum penalty of $500 fine, six months in jail or both.

Financing Deal Wrapped Up For Westcoast Gas Pipeline

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's first major gas pipeline has completed its financing and though most of the money is being raised in the United States, permanent control over voting stock is to be kept in Canadian hands.

Westcoast Transmission Company Limited Tuesday announced it has successfully arranged to raise the $153,430,000 capital through mortgages, debentures, bank notes and stock, and Alberta gas will start moving through the 680-mile line by 1957.

BIGGEST CHUNK

Biggest single chunk, $40,000,000, is coming from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company which has agreed to take almost half of the $83,000,000 in first mortgage bonds.

All told, Canadians will put up $34,000,000 of the total $153,000,000 with the biggest single investment, $10,500,000 in debentures, made by the Royal Bank of Canada.

In addition to $83,000,000 in mortgages and $53,000,000 in debentures, the company will raise $16,355,000 from common shares, with $9,000,000 of this latter amount coming from Canadians who will have 55⅓ per cent of the outstanding shares.

Control will remain with Canadians under a six-man voting trust covering 64 per cent of the common shares. Four of the six are Canadians. They are: Westcoast president Frank M. McMahon and his brother, George, of Calgary; lawyer D. P. McDonald, also of Calgary, and Vancouver industrialist Norman R. Whittall.

American trustees are Lloyd S. Gilmour and E. T. Herndon, partners in the New York firm of Eastman, Dillon and Company.

Westcoast will pipe its gas from Alberta's Peace River district to the B. C. lower mainland and to the U. S. border where it will hook up to Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation. Initial shipment of 400,000,000 cubic feet a day may ultimately rise to 660,000,000.

Manning Meets Howe

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Manning of Alberta conferred with Trade Minister Howe Tuesday on prospects for an early start on the stalled $375,000,000 trans - Canada natural gas pipeline.

There has been speculation that sponsors of the 2,200-mile project, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., are seeking backing to make a start on the western leg this year.

Mr. Manning estimated that about $72,000,000 would be needed for this initial Alberta-to-Manitoba construction.

Trans-Canada has been given until Nov. 1 to show the board of transport commissioners it has raised the funds to start the line.

But the company has hit a double snag. It cannot get full financial backing until its American associates are empowered by the U. S. government to import surplus gas from Trans-Canada at Emerson, Man. And opponents to the imports are digging in for a long battle before the Federal Power Commission which is considering the import application.

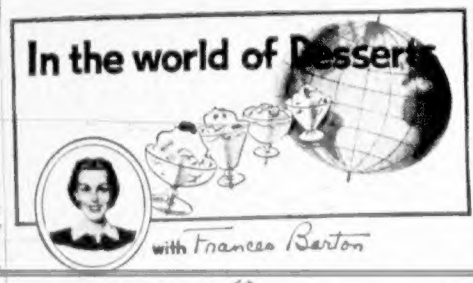
In the world of Desserts



with Frances Barton

The old saying still goes — that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach". And this applies to every other member of the family, too. So, if you're looking for a dessert to conquer the hearts and appetites of your family — a dessert that's different from the run-of-the-mill kind—try a fresh-tasting, tangy, utterly delicious lemon dessert!

Lemon desserts needn't take long, tedious preparation — not when you use Jell-O Lemon Pie Filling. You need no double boiler to make this creamy-smooth, perfect filling — just a cup, a pan and a spoon, and away you go!

Here's fresh-flavored lemon pie in a new dress. This time, the zesty filling folds into the meringue to make a wonderful, melt-in-your-mouth dessert!

LEMON CHIFFON PIE

Prepare Jell-O Lemon Pie Filling and Meringue as directed on package. Do not cool, but very gradually fold hot filling into the meringue mixture until blended. Pour into baked 8-inch pie shell (or Coconut Crust). Chill. At serving time, border the pie with whipped cream. Garnish with bits of cherries.

AS A CHANGE from a pastry shell — here's a scrumptious new quickie pie shell to set off your delicious lemon filling.

COCONUT CRUST

Spread 2 tablespoons soft butter evenly on bottom and sides of an 8- or 9-inch pie pan. Sprinkle 1½ cups Baker's Coconut in pan, pressing evenly into the butter. Brown in slow oven (300° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Chill.

In pastry shell or coconut crust, light-hearted Jell-O Lemon Chiffon Pie has a way of disappearing quickly when you set it before a dessert-hungry family. So be sure you make plenty! The flavor of Jell-O Lemon Pie Filling, you know, is pure fruit from real lemons.

Egg whites are best for meringue when at room temperature. Be sure to separate whites completely from yolks as any fat in the egg whites prevents the whites from beating up.

MOST OF US, at one time or another, have tried to stretch the dessert dollar by using leftovers, haven't we?

We're apt to be most successful in this when we remember to include that most important ingredient of all — imagination!

Leftover sponge cake is imaginatively combined with tangy, fresh-flavored Jell-O Lemon Pie Filling to make this new and delectable dessert!

PUDDIN 'N PIE

Sponge cake
1 pkg. Jell-O Lemon Pie Filling
¼ cup sugar
2¼ cups water
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites
4 tbsps. sugar

Line bottom of 8-inch glass pie plate with slices of sponge cake. (Slices should not be more than ½ inch thick.)

Combine pie filling mix, ¼ cup sugar, and ¼ cup of the water in saucepan. Add egg yolks and blend well. Add remaining 2 cups water. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened — comes to a boil and is thickened — about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Cool only about 5 minutes, stirring once or twice. Pour over sponge cake.

Make meringue of egg whites and remaining sugar. Spread over pie filling. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 5 to 10 minutes, or until meringue is lightly browned.

Jell-O is a registered trade mark used in Canada by General Foods Limited.

The idea of having Victoria Day parade floats built by technical school students or teachers has been "more or less dropped," Elliott Brown, chairman of a Chamber of Commerce sub-committee said yesterday.

The original idea was to have the students build the floats to arouse Victoria Day enthusiasm in the schools.

Wages Low but Jobs Plentiful For Canadian Girls in London

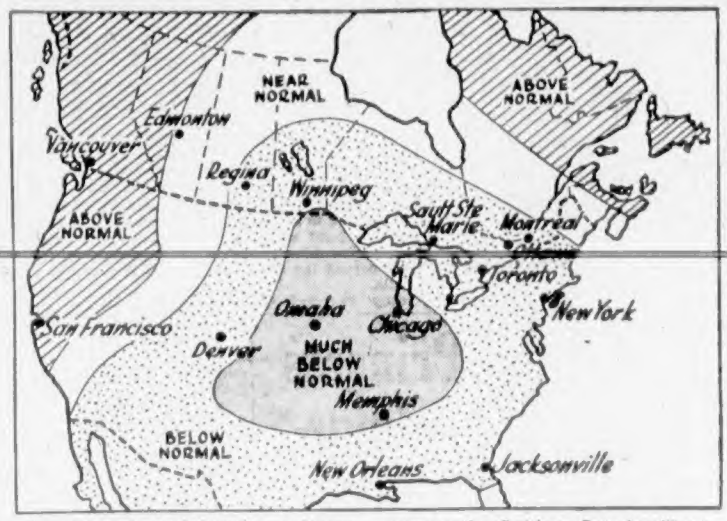
Weatherman Has Cheery Forecast for May



In most regions of Canada, gardeners and golfers can look forward to balmy weather for the next 30 days, to counteract the below-normal climate of the past month. Southern Ontario will not be so lucky, however. The weatherman prophecies below-normal temperatures in this area.—(CPC)

Rebel Band Annihilated In Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria (BUP)—Veteran French colonial troops wiped out the diehard remnants of a strong rebel band in a wild charge of a heavily-wooded hillside barely 13 miles from the big city of Constantine Saturday.

French authorities reported 40 rebel bodies were found on the battlefield on the outskirts of the dusty settlement of Grarem. Six French soldiers were killed and at least nine wounded.

In all, French security forces killed 107 guerrillas in scattered clashes throughout the terrorist-ridden eastern Algerian department of Constantine in the past 24 hours.

All-Canadian Show Has Depth, Vitality

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

The work of the distinguished eastern Canadian artist, Jack Nichols has a sombre and brooding quality.

Concerned chiefly with the portrayal of mankind, he probes beneath the surface in order to reach the inner substance. An imaginative artist who finds it necessary to experience what he draws, Nichols does not use models to work from but relies upon his stored up observation.

Non-essentials are ignored, only the vital elements are permitted to remain to form the final statement. Sparing use of line is apparent in all his work, but into the line is packed all the significance of the subject.

In the majestic chalk drawing "The Angry Bull," power, weight and movement are searchingly expressed in heavy black tones.

In "Smiling Mother," the mood changes. This is one of Nichol's more tranquil drawings. Treated loosely in soft black chalk, clear, sharp line sparingly emphasizes the essential elements, while "Matador With Cape," is pure line used with a mastery which holds one's attention.

ANYTHING USED

To understand the art of Kazuo Nakamura, one is obliged to put aside preconceived ideas of technique. Anything may be used, a piece of wire screen, a razor blade or string dipped in paint, to create landscapes with the pervading feeling of airiness and fragile Oriental charm. The free use of unpainted areas of white paper, co-operates with the use of calligraphic line.

Nakamura, a young Canadian of Japanese descent, is a member of the new group "Painters Eleven" which has been recently formed in eastern Canada.

Two Victoria painters, Molly Privett and D. Seely-Smith are exhibiting together. Mrs. Seely-Smith deals with local material in a straightforward manner. Her painting shows confidence and well-handled color.

Mrs. Privett, on the other hand, uses her subject matter with greater licence and a more effective use of color.

From the Oakland Child Art Centre we have a collection of drawings and painting of great charm and freshness.

The above exhibitions will be on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria until May 13.

DANISH SCHOOLS

Elementary education has been compulsory in Denark since 1814, with a school age of seven to 14 years.

'Goodwill Officer for U.S.' Finlayson Tags Premier

Premier W. A. C. Bennett "couldn't have given a more biased view" concerning the effect of U.S. capital on present day and future Canadian life had he been hired as a public relations officer for the U.S.

This charge was levelled yes- ... the Conservative party, Deane Finlayson, He was commenting on recent statements by the premier who defended foreign investments in Canada.

"The premier belittles those Canadians who genuinely defend the interests of Canada and Canadians," said Mr. Finlayson.

Some of this country's industries have already been "gobbled up" and the bulk of ownership was in foreign hands such as the petroleum industry, he added.

Mr. Finlayson said there was little opposition in Canada to U.S. investment as such but there was opposition to the terms in which American money comes into Canada to buy up and wholly own our primary resources.

'Copters Hunt Terrorists In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—British troops, aided by helicopters, launched a major offensive Saturday against rebel gunmen believed hiding in the mountainous northern coastal area of Cyprus.

With ships blocking sea escapes, 1,500 troops combed a 50-square-mile area, covering practically every foot in their search for rebels and weapons used by Eoka, the underground arm of the union-with-Greece movement.

Twelve villages in the area were put under a dusk-to-dawn curfew, placing the inhabitants under virtual house arrest from 7 p.m. to 4.30 a.m.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery
Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Liberal Women Urge Relief For All Non-Profit Schools

PORT ALBERNI—Legislation to alleviate taxation on all non-profit schools was urged by the Women's Liberal Association of B.C. when delegates to the annual convention here passed a resolution submitted by Victoria Liberal Women's Forum.

Some 100 delegates met in Port Alberni Legion Hall under chairmanship of Mrs. T. C. Smith, president.

The Victoria resolution was submitted under the title "Catholic school tax exemption," but, following discussion, the title was changed to "non-profit school tax exemption." It urged tax alleviation on the grounds that there is a minority in the province suffering double education taxation.

Relaxation of immigration laws was also urged, to permit prospective brides of Chinese Canadians as well as unmarried sisters, brothers and orphaned grandchildren to enter Canada.

Medical privileges for veterans' wives, extension of retirement age for civil servants to 70 years, formation of an art council for B.C., a faculty of music at UBC, and income tax deduction to cover cost of drugs and medicines were among other measures supported by the group.

To be submitted to the provincial government is a resolution urging amendment of the Child Welfare Act to make it unlawful to leave children unattended. The resolution noted that half of all Canadians killed in fires each year are children under 15 years.

Also carried was a resolution moved by Mrs. Anna Sprott of Vancouver urging that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation be relieved of administrative responsibilities in the field of regulations to permit full devotion of time to building and operating a broadcasting service in the public interest.

Council Struggles At Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—Council has not yet brought down the 1956 budget after two lengthy meetings as a committee of the whole in an effort to complete estimates.

A report of the committee Monday night said every endeavor is being made to reduce expenditures to a point where they can be met without increasing the taxes beyond the 1955 rate of 33 mills.

"With vastly increased demand for expansion of services caused by the rapid expansion of the city, this task is proving difficult," the report said.

In an attempt to obtain concrete figures for replacement of works' department equipment, Mayor Loran Jordon and Works Superintendent Len Crowshaw were authorized to go to Vancouver to interview machinery dealers.

If this information can be obtained, council hopes to introduce the rate by-law at the next meeting, it was reported.

Princess Elaine Damaged

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Pacific's Princess drydock at North Vancouver Elaine will go to Burrard on Thursday for inspection of her three propellers, one of which it is believed was damaged after contact with a submerged log, causing abnormal vibration in the ship.

The Elaine's scheduled sailings from Vancouver to Nanaimo at 9 p.m., and from Nanaimo to Vancouver at 11.59 p.m., has therefore been cancelled, the CPR announced today.

To assist in handling traffic, the 8 p.m. sailing of the company's Princess of Vancouver well be delayed one hour, leaving V[illegible] at 9 p.m., on April 26, only.

Water Bill 'Wrong' Says Mayor

NANAIMO—Mayor Earle Westwood expressed concern over the apparent loss of city water and the increase in Nanaimo's share of water costs at Monday's council meeting.

City waterworks expenditures will be up $37,000 this year to $154,941. Water costs are now divided between Harewood and the city.

It is thought that the city's water bill will be $42,000 more than last year's $101,000 paid to the Greater Nanaimo Water District.

The mayor thought that "something is radically wrong." He said it did not make sense. If there were leakages he suggested it would be a good idea to have a special electrical equipment for checking where the water was going.

Burial of the hatchet, in a spot to be marked by a marble tombstone, will symbolize the formation of a consulting group to work in co-operation for the betterment of Vancouver Island as a whole.

FANTASTIC RED RECEPTION LIKE RUGBY SCRUM

Little 'Vagrant' Naps at Station

Contented Ann Nefery, about 2½ years, slept more than two hours on a city police station cot yesterday while officers attempted to find her home. Found wandering at 9.15 a.m., she was cared for by a Denman street woman, who notified police at 1.15 p.m. After school Ann rode in a police car in the Denman area until children pointed to her home, 1777 Bay.—(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Diplomats Elbowed

LONDON (Reuters) — Nikita Krushchev and Nikolai Bulganin were the central figures Tuesday night in one of the most amazing receptions in London's diplomatic history.

Given by the Soviet embassy, the reception developed into what guests described as a "rugby scrum" or a "super sales - time scrimmage," in the palatial ballroom of the elegant Claridge's Hotel.

Glasses were crushed under foot, huge vases of flowers swayed dangerously and burly Soviet security guards bulldozed their way through nearly 2,000 distinguished guests.

Ambassadors, cabinet ministers, members of Parliament and heads the diplomatic corps were caught in a struggle to get through the Russian guard to see the Soviet leaders at close quarters.

MANY A SLIP

Wine and food were spilled on the gowns of society women.

At one point, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd was moved bodily away from the ever - smiling Khrushchev.

During the evening Khrushchev brushed aside prominent guests to put comedian Charlie Chaplin in the limelight at this bizarre gathering.

The Russian Communist party secretary reserved his warmest greeting for the movie comedian and his wife, Oona.

"I am so very glad to meet you," he told Chaplin. "We have very great respect for your films in the Soviet Union. I have seen them all many times."

PUSH GUESTS

The two men clinked glasses in a toast while huge Russian bodyguards, acting on Khrushchev's orders, pushed aside guests to allow cameramen to record the scene.

The "storm" started while Khrushchev and Bulganin were talking with Prime Minister Eden and a few privileged guests in a small room at the end of the main reception hall.

As the 2,000 guests arrived it became known that the two guests of honor were in the far room.

About 200 persons tried to move through the large double doors, but were stopped by a group of six-foot-tall plainclothes Russian police.

Khrushchev's face set in a scowl as he shouldered his way up to Russian guests at the reception, muttering and protesting about what he called in Russian the "hamptso" — piggish — behavior of the British Laborites.

MORE VODKA!

Waiters whisked the Kremlin bosses into a private anteroom as the crush of the crowd increased. The doors slammed behind them, shutting off the teeming reception hall at Claridge's, fashionable London hotel, and Bulganin was heard demanding:

"What happened to the vodka? Give me another vodka!"

(Stanley Priddle, Reuters diplomatic correspondent, reported that the Russian leaders seemed certain to return to Moscow empty-handed. Tuesday morning, they held their last major meeting with Prime Minister Eden. Both sides refused to budge on issues like disarmament and the Western ban on strategic trading with Russia.)

Both British and Russian officials said Khrushchev was boiling over the treatment he got Monday night at a dinner given for him and Bulganin by leaders of the Labor party.

DIRECT QUESTION

Hugh Gaitskell, head of the Labor party, seized this semi-public occasion to ask Khrushchev point blank if he would help obtain the release of Social Democrats (socialists) imprisoned behind the Iron Curtain. Khrushchev replied testily that there were no Social Democrats in Russia and what happened to them in other countries was none of his business.

That reply undercut the Communists' campaign to build a "popular front" with socialists in the West.

Tuesday came a free-wheeling exchange with British legislators on trade and politics, at which Khrushchev finally threw up his hands.

"You may call me a pot," he said, "but don't put me on the stove."

New City TV Admits Risk To Channel 5

Representatives of Capital Television System told Victoria town planning commission last night that "we give no assurance" the city's TV station will not interfere with popular KING-TV, Seattle.

James Proudfoot, CKDA solicitor, said that if Victoria's channel 6 interfered with channel 5, "it will be in the majority of the city," but a "small gadget" could eliminate the trouble. Later, a commissioner said the "gadget" might cost TV set owners between $30 and $40 each.

The commission referred problem of rezoning four lots on Stevenson place, Smith's Hill, for the TV station to city council "as a matter of policy."

In doing so, the commission put aside a sub-committee recommendation in favor of rezoning the property. Hugh Stephen, sub-committee member, said this recommendation was made before 153 residents of the area submitted a petition opposing the TV site.

Five spokesmen for the residents told the commission that TV studios, transmitter and tower on Smith's Hill would cause traffic congestion, lower real estate values and cause interference with TV sets in the area.

There are 500 to 600 TV sets within one-half mile of the site, said Mrs. N. M. Fulton, 1155 Finlayson. This was "a $250,000 investment, bigger than the station itself and should be protected."

"This has been hurried through," she said. "Can the people not be given a chance to be heard, and if necessary, to vote?"

Mrs. Fulton added: "We are not against a television station. Victoria should definitely have one. But we are against it in any residential district."

Capital Television System will be incorporated for $1,000,000 with an initial cash investment of $300,000, Mr. Proudfoot disclosed.

He said the 100-foot tower would "not be an eyesore," and would be moved to Salt Spring island when the station is allowed to go to high power, "not later than 1958, I am sure."

Mr. Proudfoot said he had been advised by "all the engineers" that channel 6 will never interfere with channel 4.

"But five is a different problem," he said. "We give no assurance there. We would like to, but we can't.

"If there is interference, it will affect the majority of the city. There will be no more trouble at Smith's Hill than any other part of the city. We hope to eliminate interference completely."

Mr. Stephen said the sub-committee felt that if rezoning was approved, it should be made certain that the land reverts to residential use if TV or radio installations are ever removed.

"If this was any normal commercial enterprise," Mr. Stephen said, "I don't think one member of the commission would go for it."

However, he said, city officials are "evidently very anxious" to keep the TV station in the city for "prestige" reasons.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor George Sharpe of Winnipeg said Tuesday the Manitoba flood situation may force him to cut short his visit here and fly home.

River's Gigantic Shortcut Pours into Menacing Red

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—A shallow lake 25 miles long and 10 miles wide, which was formed east of here by the ice-jammed Assiniboine river, is finding a partial outlet into the Red river at St. Norbert, 13 miles south of Winnipeg, Mayor H. L. Henderson said Tuesday night.

He made the comment after an aerial survey of the area between Portage, la Prairie and Baie St. Paul, 30 miles from Winnipeg. He said flood waters were moving southeast through the La Salle river which empties into the Red.

THREAT TO CITY

Mayor Henderson said the development would add to the worries of Winnipeg residents who already face a flood forecast described as serious. Predictions of a flood peak in Winnipeg range from 27 to 30 feet above average river ice level. The Red river rose to 30.3 feet at Winnipeg in the disastrous 1950 flood.

Dirty water is at the back door and a towering dike at the front for about 40 Scotia street home owners who live so close to the threatening Red river that they had to be left outside the city's main flood defence.

Their hopes for escaping serious loss, for the second time in six years in some cases, depend on the whims of the river.

FIGHT OR LEAVE

Some are taking expensive steps to save their homes from the murky water. Others, finding themselves outside the main dike at the mercy of the river, have moved out.

One of the more imaginative flood protection moves is being taken by railway dining car steward J. P. Smith, who is thoroughly disgusted with the exposed position of the house he occupied until the 1950 flood and has rented to others since.

"We're going to get this every year," he said with a wave at the ice-dotted river. "I told my wife this house would wind up at Winnipeg Beach (on Lake Winnipeg downstream) anyway, so I'm moving it there."

Movers were at work already raising the house and hoped to have the tiny dwelling on its way by Thursday.

Another owner, who had already left his house, had a crew of men raising it on heavy timbers about six feet above the foundations, or about even with the level of the primary dike.

Residents along Wolseley avenue in west-central Winnipeg who protested a city plan to build a dike leaving 41 homes exposed to the Assiniboine river have been told they may build their own dike—where they want it.

City engineers were authorized Tuesday to move sand and sandbags into the area for the volunteer builders.

Danger In B.C. Easing

Provincial officials breathed easier yesterday as the near record snow pack in B.C. and the resulting high flood potential was reported fast disappearing.

"I'm very optimistic about the whole situation due to this wonderful weather," said Evan Jones, deputy highways minister. "The warm days and cool nights have slowed down the runoff from the high lands.

Red China Question Still Alive—Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Question of diplomatic recognition by Canada of Communist China is under constant review by the government, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday.

In a far-ranging, 95-minute discussion in the Commons external affairs committee, he also:

1. Welcomed as "encouraging and hopeful" the statement of U.S. State Secretary Dulles that NATO should be more than a military alliance.

2. Disclosed that the government is considering whether to ask the U.S. for corridors across the Alaska Panhandle.

3. Declared that it has been more difficult in the last two years to cross the Canada-U.S. border—both ways—and that administrative steps should be taken to open the border wider.

The minister also said the U.S. had agreed with his statement, made at the White Sulphur Springs conference last month, that UN members which recognize Peiping are becoming increasingly embarrassed by the presence of Nationalist China in the UN.

Nikita Real Boss Britons Convinced

LONDON (Reuters)—A week of watching Russia's leaders has made Britons certain of one thing—Nikita Khrushchev is the real boss in the Kremlin.

Beside him, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin seems little more than a dignified grey shadow who takes the first handshakes and makes the pleasant platitudes.

To correspondents, he seems a vaguely unhappy shadow. He smiles above that trim grey goatee only when a smile seems to be called for on the program.

Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, is a character out of an entirely different mold.

During his trenchant speech in Birmingham Monday on the theme of "anything the West can do, Russia can do better," an English industrialist turned to reporters and whispered in some awe:

"That man wasn't born—he was welded."

Khrushchev, from the tone of his speech, was angry at the British refusal to scrap the embargoes on trade with Russia in strategic goods, angry at a man in the crowd he had seen shaking a fist at him, and angry at the generally cold welcome he and Bulganin have received in the streets of British cities.

An angry Khrushchev is not to be taken lightly. He is a small, portly man with a homespun face and a head bald except for short bristles of white hair. But he is tough.

It shows in his eyes and in his mouth. As he sits at official banquets listening to the conversation of the dignitaries beside him, his wide mouth is set in an expression that suggests a mixture of faint amusement, cynicism and boredom. His small eyes take in the whole room in a penetrating glance.

He has a sense of humor, but he does not laugh easily. When someone makes a sally he does not think particularly funny, his most polite response is to shrug his shoulders and turn his eyes upwards.

It is evident that neither of the Russian leaders likes having awkward questions about their policies shot at them unexpectedly during public appearances.

The effect is always the same. Bulganin looks around at Khrushchev and waits for him to answer. Khrushchev scowls and replies with great vigor.

Eight Children Die In Newfoundland Fire

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Eight children were burned to death here Tuesday in the most tragic fire in this city's history.

The victims were identified as children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Curtis. Their names were not immediately available.

Firemen said they ranged in age from infancy to 17 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis and two children escaped without serious injury.

The fire broke out about 10 p.m. and by midnight firemen had recovered five bodies. They are probing the ruins for the other three.

Observers said the fire "almost immediately consumed" the Curtis home. A fire department spokesman said it was believed to have originated from a light meter.

Winds May Pick Favorite Of Two Strait Bids Today

Winds may pick a favorite among two swimmers planning north-south strait crossings today.

Bill Muir of Saanich, who made five attempts without success last year, will start off at 7 a.m. from Saxe point, landing site for Bert Thomas when he swam north from Port Angeles July 7 and 8 last year.

Muir hopes to reach Race Rocks in the first 3½ hours in order to catch an ebb to Port Angeles. His best previous effort was 11 miles in four hours, 45 minutes.

Marathon newcomer Ben Laughren of Victoria, forced by tides to quit his first attempt a week ago after four hours, 25 minutes and 2½ miles, plans a 4.30 p.m. departure from the east point of Horseshoe bay. His course: Southeast for the first two hours, thence south.

The weatherman does not expect winds of more than 10 miles an hour in the morning, except for occasional gusts after 10 a.m. However, in the afternoon, westerly winds of 12 miles an hour, gusting to 15, are forecast.

Kirkwell Aster Offer Brings 7,000 Letters

An unprecedented response to the Kirkwell aster free seed offer by M. V. Chesnut poured more than 7,000 letters into The Daily Colonist office in a week.

As a result, the supply of seed—all that is available in North America—went to the first 4,000 readers to answer the offer.

But Ches immediately assured readers that the overflow demand would be filled with another popular and rare seed.

He is using Swiss hybrid pansy seed, which, Ches says, produces "saucer-size blooms and extraordinary purity of color."

All requests will have been filled by early next week.

"What happened to the vodka? Give me another vodka!"

Both British and Russian officials said Khrushchev was boiling over the treatment he got Monday night at a dinner given for him and Bulganin by leaders of the Labor party.

DIRECT QUESTION

Hugh Gaitskell, head of the Labor party, seized this semi-public occasion to ask Khrushchev point blank if he would help obtain the release of Social Democrats (socialists) imprisoned behind the Iron Curtain. Khrushchev replied testily that there were no Social Democrats in Russia and what happened to them in other countries was none of his business.

That reply undercut the Communists' campaign to build a "popular front" with socialists in the West.

Tuesday came a free-wheeling exchange with British legislators on trade and politics, at which Khrushchev finally threw up his hands.

"You may call me a pot," he said, "but don't put me on the stove."

New City TV Admits Risk To Channel 5

Representatives of Capital Television System told Victoria town planning commission last night that "we give no assurance" the city's TV station will not interfere with popular KING-TV, Seattle.

James Proudfoot, CKDA solicitor, said that if Victoria's channel 6 interfered with channel 5, "it will be in the majority of the city," but a "small gadget" could eliminate the trouble. Later, a commissioner said the "gadget" might cost TV set owners between $30 and $40 each.

The commission referred problem of rezoning four lots on Stevenson place, Smith's Hill, for the TV station to city council "as a matter of policy."

In doing so, the commission put aside a sub-committee recommendation in favor of rezoning the property. Hugh Stephen, sub-committee member, said this recommendation was made before 153 residents of the area submitted a petition opposing the TV site.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION

Five spokesmen for the residents told the commission that TV studios, transmitter and tower on Smith's Hill would cause traffic congestion, lower real estate values and cause interference with TV sets in the area.

There are 500 to 600 TV sets within one-half mile of the site, said Mrs. N. M. Fulton, 1155 Finlayson. This was "a $250,000 investment, bigger than the station itself and should be protected."

"This has been hurried through," she said. "Can the people not be given a chance to be heard, and if necessary, to vote?"

Mrs. Fulton added: "We are not against a television station. Victoria should definitely have one. But we are against it in any residential district."

Capital Television System will be incorporated for $1,000,000 with an initial cash investment of $300,000, Mr. Proudfoot disclosed.

He said the 100-foot tower would "not be an eyesore," and would be moved to Salt Spring island when the station is allowed to go to high power, "not later than 1958, I am sure."

Mr. Proudfoot said he had been advised by "all the engineers" that channel 6 will never interfere with channel 4.

"But five is a different problem," he said. "We give no assurance there. We would like to, but we can't.

"If there is interference, it will affect the majority of the city. There will be no more trouble at Smith's Hill than any other part of the city. We hope to eliminate interference completely."

Mr. Stephen said the sub-committee felt that if rezoning was approved, it should be made certain that the land reverts to residential use if TV or radio installations are ever removed.

"If this was any normal commercial enterprise," Mr. Stephen said, "I don't think one member of the commission would go for it."

However, he said, city officials are "evidently very anxious" to keep the TV station in the city for "prestige" reasons.

River's Gigantic Shortcut Pours into Menacing Red

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—A shallow lake 25 miles long and 10 miles wide, which was formed east of here by the ice-jammed Assiniboine river, is finding a partial outlet into the Red river at St. Norbert., 13 miles south of Winnipeg, Mayor H. L. Henderson said Tuesday night.

He made the comment after an aerial survey of the area between Portage la Prairie and Baie St. Paul, 30 miles from Winnipeg. He said flood waters were moving southeast through the La Salle river which empties into the Red.

THREAT TO CITY

Mayor Henderson said the development would add to the worries of Winnipeg residents who already face a flood forecast described as serious. Predictions of a flood peak in Winnipeg range from 27 to 30 feet above average river ice level. The Red river rose to 30.3 feet at Winnipeg in the disastrous 1950 flood.

Dirty water is at the back door and a towering dike at the front for about 40 Scotia street home owners who live so close to the threatening Red river that they had to be left outside the city's main flood defence.

Their hopes for escaping serious loss, for the second time in six years in some cases, depend on the whims of the river.

FIGHT OR LEAVE

Some are taking expensive steps to save their homes from the murky water. Others, finding themselves outside the main dike at the mercy of the river, have moved out.

One of the more imaginative flood protection moves is being taken by railway dining car steward J. P. Smith, who is thoroughly disgusted with the exposed position of the house he occupied until the 1950 flood and has rented to others since.

"We're going to get this every year," he said with a wave at the ice-dotted river. "I told my wife this house would wind up at Winnipeg Beach (on Lake Winnipeg downstream) anyway, so I'm moving it there."

Movers were at work already raising the house and hoped to have the tiny dwelling on its way by Thursday.

Another owner, who had already left his house, had a crew of men raising it on heavy timbers about six feet above the foundations, or about even with the level of the primary dike.

Residents along Wolseley avenue in west-central Winnipeg who protested a city plan to build a dike leaving 41 homes exposed to the Assiniboine river have been told they may build their own dike—where they want it.

City engineers were authorized Tuesday to move sand and sandbags into the area for the volunteer builders.

Danger In B.C. Easing

Provincial officials breathed easier yesterday as the near record snow pack in B.C. and the resulting high flood potential was reported fast disappearing.

"I'm very optimistic about the whole situation due to this wonderful weather," said Evan Jones, deputy highways minister. "The warm days and cool nights have slowed down the runoff from the high lands.

Red China Question Still Alive—Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Question of diplomatic recognition by Canada of Communist China is under constant review by the government, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday.

In a far-ranging, 95-minute discussion in the Commons external affairs committee, he also:

1. Welcomed as "encouraging and hopeful" the statement of U.S. State Secretary Dulles that NATO should be more than a military alliance.

2. Disclosed that the government is considering whether to ask the U.S. for corridors across the Alaska Panhandle.

3. Declared that it has been more difficult in the last two years to cross the Canada-U.S. border—both ways—and that administrative steps should be taken to open the border wider.

The minister also said the U.S. had agreed with his statement, made at the White Sulphur Springs conference last month, that UN members which recognize Peiping are becoming increasingly embarrassed by the presence of Nationalist China in the UN.

Nikita Real Boss Britons Convinced

LONDON (Reuters)—A week of watching Russia's leaders has made Britons certain of one thing—Nikita Khrushchev is the real boss in the Kremlin.

Beside him, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin seems little more than a dignified grey shadow who takes the first handshakes and makes the pleasant platitudes.

To correspondents, he seems a vaguely unhappy shadow. He smiles above that trim grey goatee only when a smile seems to be called for on the program.

DIPLOMAT MOLD

Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, is a character out of an entirely different mold.

During his trenchant speech in Birmingham Monday on the theme of "anything the West can do, Russia can do better," an English industrialist turned to reporters and whispered in some awe:

"That man wasn't born—he was welded."

HE IS TOUGH

Khrushchev, from the tone of his speech, was angry at the British refusal to scrap the embargoes on trade with Russia in strategic goods, angry at a man in the crowd he had seen shaking a fist at him, and angry at the generally cold welcome he and Bulganin have received in the streets of British cities.

An angry Khrushchev is not to be taken lightly. He is a small, portly man with a homespun face and a head bald except for short bristles of white hair. But he is tough.

It shows in his eyes and in his mouth. As he sits at official banquets listening to the conversation of the dignitaries beside him, his wide mouth is set in an expression that suggests a mixture of faint amusement, cynicism and boredom. His small eyes take in the whole room in a penetrating glance.

He has a sense of humor, but he does not laugh easily. When someone makes a sally he does not think particularly funny, his most polite response is to shrug his shoulders and turn his eyes upwards.

It is evident that neither of the Russian leaders likes having awkward questions about their policies shot at them unexpectedly during public appearances.

ALWAYS SAME

The effect is always the same. Bulganin looks around at Khrushchev and waits for him to answer. Khrushchev scowls and replies with great vigor.

This happened, for instance, at Harwell atomic research station when a young labor union official asked if Russia now was prepared to allow freedom of criticism to unions and religious denominations.

Khrushchev pushed past Bulganin and give an answer in an aggressive tone which amounted to "you mind your business and we will mind ours."

So far, Bulganin and Khrushchev have failed to put over the kind of charm that made their colleague, ex-premier Georgi Malenkov, the darling of English crowds when he came here last month as Soviet minister of power stations.

Light Frost Perhaps But Sun Too

Light frost may make an unseasonal appearance in Victoria early tomorrow, but the sunny spell will still go on and on and on.

Weatherman William Mackie reported last night that his weather station has not recorded more than .01 inches of rain in any single day for the last 18 days.

All-time rainless record for this time of year is 29 days, from March 29 to April 26, 1951.

Eight Children Die In Newfoundland Fire

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—Eight children were burned to death here Tuesday in the most tragic fire in this city's history.

The victims were identified as children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Curtis. Their names were not immediately available.

Firemen said they ranged in age from infancy to 17 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis and two children escaped without serious injury.

The fire broke out about 10 p.m. and by midnight firemen had recovered five bodies. They are probing the ruins for the other three.

Observers said the fire "almost immediately consumed" the Curtis home. A fire department spokesman said it was believed to have originated from a light meter.

Winds May Pick Favorite Of Two Strait Bids Today

Winds may pick a favorite among two swimmers planning north-south strait crossings today.

Bill Muir of Saanich, who made five attempts without success last year, will start off at 7 a.m. from Saxe point, landing site for Bert Thomas when he swam north from Port Angeles July 7 and 8 last year.

Muir hopes to reach Race Rocks in the first 3½ hours in order to catch an ebb to Port Angeles. His best previous effort was 11 miles in four hours, 45 minutes.

Marathon newcomer Ben Laughren of Victoria, forced by tides to quit his first attempt a week ago after four hours, 25 minutes and 3¼ miles, plans a 4.30 p.m. departure from the east point of Horseshoe bay. His course: Southeast for the first two hours, thence south.

The weatherman does not expect winds of more than 10 miles an hour in the morning, except for occasional gusts after 10 a.m. However, in the afternoon, westerly winds of 12 miles an hour, gusting to 15, are forecast.

Kirkwell Aster Offer Brings 7,000 Letters

An unprecedented response to the Kirkwell aster free seed offer by M. V. Chesnut poured more than 7,000 letters into The Daily Colonist office in a week.

As a result, the supply of seed—all that is available in North America—went to the first 4,000 readers to answer the offer.

But Ches immediately assured readers that the overflow demand would be filled with another popular and rare seed.

He is using Swiss hybrid pansy seed, which, Ches says, produces "saucer-size blooms and extraordinary purity of color."

All requests will have been filled by early next week.
